JUBILEE CELEBRATION GREATEST IN ALL HISTORY OF EDMONTON

Dangers Largely Passed

Growth So Vigorous Pests Can Now Do Little Injury

Crop conditions throughout Alberta at the present time are more favorable than for many years past, and indications point to a particularly heavy yield, according to the fourth crop report just issued by the provincial department of agriculture. Favorable weather throughout the remainder of the growing and filling period is all that is now required.

Damage from pests is lighter this year than usual, the report states. Wire-worms have made their appearance in a number of districts, but vigorous growth has carried the crops past the stage where it can be seriously injured. Hail in a few districts has done some damage, but this is purely local in character.

Heads Already Showing

Much early sown wheat is in the shot blade and heads are showing in many fields where seeding was completed at an early date. Spring and fall rye are fully healed out and oats and barley are making rapid growth.

In the southern part of the province ideal growing weather is reported, early winter wheat is heading out, and a start has been made with the first cutting of alfalfa on many farms. While rainfall generally has been sufficient to carry the crops along, water is being applied over parts of the irrigation belt. Alfalfa, clovers, hay crops and prairie pastures have made splendid growth and livestock is in good condition.

Warm showery weather throughout the central part of the province has carried crops along well; conditions are ideal for the breaking of much new land, and summer-fallowing is from 50 to 60 per cent. completed. Throughout this area and in more northerly sections there is evidance of a marked increase in acreage in many districts, as compared with previous years.

Breaking New Land

In the Peace River and Grande Prairie districts, rainfall has been abundant and prospects generally are excellent. Seeding in this part of the province was completed earlier and crops at the present time are from a week to ten days ahead of those further south. A great deal of new land throughout this part of the province is being cleared and broken in preparation for the 1928 crop.

TODAY'S ODDEST NEWS

FERNIE FIREWORKS SHOT OFF BY JOLLY PRISONER

FERNIE, B.C., July 2—Fireworks valued at several hundred dollars, were destroyed in a compartment at the police station here yesterday afternoon, when the only prisoner in the adjoining jail, Sam Choates, allegedly released himself from his cell and deliberately ignited the stores in the chamber. After a stiff fight the police succeeded in subduing the blaze started by the exploding fireworks, which had been intended for the final display of a two-day jubilee celebration here today, and re-apprehended Choates.

Camrose District Crops Presage Bounteous Yield

CAMROSE, Alta., July 2.—Unless very unfavorable conditions arise during the maturing period the Camrose district will reap the greatest harvest in its history. With an acreage slightly increased over that of last year, with abundant moisture throughout the growing period and a considerable amount of sunshine and no excessive heat, all grains are rapidly advancing to the maturing stage in a most excellent condition. Wheat is standing 20 to 30 inches high and in some places begins to show signs of heading out. Oats are making wonderful advance in growth and all other crops are in an exceptionally satisfactory condition at this time.

J. WRIGHT, JR., LOSES SCULLS BY HARD LUCK

Crashes Into Boom at Side Of Course Near Finish

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, Eng., July 2—R. Lee, of Worcester College, Oxford, defeated Joe Wright Jr., of Toronto, in the final for the diamond sculls this afternoon. The defeat of the favorite, the stalwart Canadian, came as the crowning surprise in a remarkable series.

Lee won by a length. The time was 9 minutes 6 seconds, fairly slow. The race was sculled at 3.30 English daylight saving time.

Wright was leading by more than a length when he crashed into the booms at the side of the course, only 10 yards from the finish.

Thames Wins

The Thames Rowing Club won the Grand Challenge Cup for eights at the Royal Henley Regatta this afternoon in 7 minutes 16 seconds, defeating the London Rowing Club.

First Trinity College, Cambridge won the ladies' plate, eights, from Third Trinity, Cambridge, by one and three-quarter lengths, in 7 minutes, 29 seconds.

The sky was downcast, but a tremendous crowd turned out to watch the finals this afternoon. Premier Baldwin was present.

MAYOR THANKS CITIZENS FOR CO-OPERATION

Mayor A. U. G. Bury today issued the following statement to the citizens of Edmonton:

"I desire to publicly thank the different societies and individuals, who contributed so much to make the celebration of yesterday so pronounced a success. I also wish to thank the members of the public generally for their hearty and loyal co-operation with one another and with the police and officials for the purpose of affecting the smooth working of all arrangements and of averting trouble or accident. The orderly spirit of the large crowd was something wonderful.

"Special praise and thanks are due to the Boy Scouts who with the greatest self-sacrifice worked all day from early morning without thought of depriving themselves of the pleasure of taking a free part in the parade and the celebration which followed.

"We must also give thanks to Almighty God for the wonderful weather granted us Friday."

"Confederation" Train Returning

"The Confederation," train de luxe of the Canadian National Railway service, will arrive from Vancouver, B.C., in Edmonton this afternoon at 3 o'clock, leaving fifteen minutes later for Winnipeg and Toronto. Included in the party on board are representatives from Western Canadian and British Columbia daily newspapers.

C.N. Confederation Train Steams In Toronto Station

TORONTO, Ont., July 2.—On the morning the diamond jubilee of confederation when all Canada was celebrating the 60th anniversary of the union of the province "The Confederation," the new Canadian National Railway's train, giving a direct daily service between Toronto and Vancouver, steamed into the Union station on its first trip from the Pacific coast and Western Canada.

The train, which was filled to capacity was reminiscent of the Fathers of Confederation, for the sleeping cars bore such well known names as that of Tache and Galt and the compartment observation car, Fort Chamly, another important name in Canadian history.

Throngs on Parliament Hill Hear New Confederation Poem

Miss Margaret Anglin Reads Inspiring Words from Pen of Bliss Carmen to Gathering

OTTAWA, July 2—The throngs on Parliament Hill Friday afternoon were hushed as the voice of one of Canada's most famous artists uttered a patriotic message written by a Canadian poet.

Miss Margaret Anglin, introduced by Premier King as a daughter of the House of Commons, and esteemed in Canada and the United States for her artistry on the stage, gave a dramatic reading of a poem written for the occasion of the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation by Bliss Carman, eminent Canadian poet. Miss Anglin, daughter of a speaker of the House of Commons, was born in the speaker's apartments of the house, replaced by the present structure.

The poem, titled, "Dominion Day, 1927," follows:—

"From Grand Pre with its brimming tides
And orchards on every hand,
To our western gate on Georgia Strait,
Where wondrous mountains stand,
Whether bred to the sea or the hills or the plains
We are born to one sacred land.

"Our freedom we brought from Runnymede,
Our blood from Senlac Hill,
The heritage of our fathers' faith,
Good heart and steadfast will,
To receive and uphold the living word—
These are our watchwords still.
The din of nations on the march
Resounds. We wait the voice
That shall in quietude and peace
Proclaim the mightier choice—
The reign of brotherhood wherein
The man-God may rejoice."

HENRY FRASER, BORN HERE IN 1854, IS DEAD

Henry Fraser, Edmonton's oldest old-timer, born in Edmonton and prominent member of the Old-Timers' Association, died at his Winterburn residence early Saturday morning at the age of 73 years.

Born in Edmonton when it was but a tiny trading post surrounded by stockades to keep the Blackfeet Indians out, Mr. Fraser spent his lifetime here and is survived by his wife, four sons, four sisters and one brother.

Trapped in City Centre

As a boy living with his uncle, Mr. Fraser attended school in the stockades, while he set trap lines for wolves on a route extending from the present site of the Macdonald hotel to the Government House in the west end of the city, catching as many as ten wolves in ten consecutive nights.

In later years he purchased land in the Winterburn district, claiming at that time that the district about Edmonon would grow grealy, and he has lived o see his prophecy come true.

Mr. Fraser always took an active part in the city life, and was a prominent member of the Old-Timers' Association, who mourn his passing.

He is survived by his sons, Colin James, Jack Edward, and Robert, of Winterburn, and Thomas, of Edmonton. His sisters are Mrs. Joe McDonald, Edmonton; Mrs. Borwich, Andrew, Alta.; Mrs. Rowland, of Battleford, and Mrs. Tate of Grande Prairie. His brother, Colin Fraser, resides at Fort Chipewyan.

Funeral on Monday

The funeral will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the First Presbyterian church, Rev. Dr. McQueen officiating. Interment will be made at Edmonton cemetery. Foster and Patterson have charge.

ONE LINDBERGH ESCORT KILLED

OTTAWA, July 2.—Lieut. G. Thad Johnson, First Pursuit Squadron, Selfridge Field, was instantly killed when his plane forming one of the escort which accompanied Colonel Lindbergh to Ottawa crashed in making a landing. Lieut. Johnson came from Texas, but officials are unable to state his home town. Lieut. Johnson was the only occupant of the plane.

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, bearing messages of greeting from President Coolidge to Premier Mackenzie King in commemoration of the diamond jubilee of Canada's confederation, arrived with his escort of 12 United States army planes and circled ove rthe capital at 1:15 p.m., eastern daylight time.

Man Killed at Calgary On Evening of Jubilee

CALGARY, July 2.—Sam McNeil, Rosedale, a man of 40 years, was instantly killed Friday evening when he tried to run across Eighth avenue at Seventh street west in front of a street car travelling west. The body was drawn under the car and dragged 15 feet. He has a sister in Calgary, Mrs. C. Stirret, of 807 Twentieth avenue west.

Around the Town

BY W. A. de GRAVES

There's something peculiarly charateristic about the fact that Hon. Frank Oliver will not be in Edmonton today to see the bust erected in his honor by the Old Timers unveiled. The pioneer statesman and friend of the west had been invited and had accepted if his duties would permit, and it was to be an event unique in the history of Canada that a man being honored in that way would be present at the unveiling of his own statue.

But these are days of great importance to the West in Ottawa. The Board of Railway Commissioners are arriving at freight rate decisions which mean much to Western Canada, and the West needs every friend possible to have on the job. For that reason, and that reason only, Hon. Frank Oliver is staying with his duties on the Board of Railway Commissioners today. He is still serving the West, and doubtless is putting up as bonny a fight as he ever did.

The Old Timers are disappointed. They wanted him here badly, but they know and appreciate the motives that are keeping him in Ottawa.

"That's Frank all over," commented one grizzled pioneer yesterday. "Nothing can stand in the way of his duty as he sees is for the West."

And that is, in itself, a compliment of more than passing worth.

It's over, Edmonton's Confederation Jubilee celebration, and none can say that it was not a worthy one, or that the committee in charge of the affair are not worthy of the warmest commendation of the citizens at large.

Enormous Crowds In Happy Mood

Thousands in City from Outside Points Take Part in Unique Festivities—Success of Celebration Beyong all Doubt—Streets and Parks and Hillsides Thronged—Weather Proves Delightful

With pomp and pageantry the like of which never has been seen in this city before, Edmonton on Friday inaugurated the three days' celebration of Canada's Diamond Jubilee of Confederation. It was a celebration worthy of the caiptal city of Alberta; it proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that this northwestern section of the vast Dominion is fully cognizant of the great heritage handed down by those to whom honor was being done.

From the crowing of the cock in the morning until midnight the festivities continued. Edmonton awoke early and stayed up late. Bustle and activity were manifest on all sides. Everybody was in a good humor and thoroughly imbued with the holiday and jubilee spirit. Youngsters pitched fire-crackers amongst the legs of staid [illegible] and it was alright; people jostled one another in the crowds, stepped on pet corns and bunions and still never a word of complaint.

The city turned out en masse. Never has such a throng poured out and the number was undoubtedly augmented by thousands from surrounding points. All roads leading this way were congested from the early hours and it is safe to state that fully one-quarter of the tremendous numbers came from outside points. It was a gathering which is not likely to be equalled for years to come and it bespoke glowingly of the pride of Western Canadians in their Canada.

JASPER AVENUE CROWDED HOUR BEFORE PARADE

Though the mammoth parade with which the celebration as a whole was to be officially opened was not due to get under way until 10:30 a.m., Jasper avenue was crowded an hour before. Special detachments of police, supplemented by Boy Scouts, kept people on the sidewalks. Every point of vantage along the way, windows, balconies, roofs, lawns, lamp posts and door steps, proved to be occupied. The route of the parade was lined with one solid mass of good-natured humanity.

True to its word, the parade committee moved the weighty procession off from Fraser avenue promptly at 10:30, headed by Chief Constable A. G. Shute, Deputy Chief Matthew Blackwood and a detail of the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve. Fully two miles in length and taking almost an hour and a half to pass a given point, the procession moved through the human-bounded thoroughfares. West on Jasper it proceeded to 107 street, when it swung south to the legislative buildings. The head of the column had long since reached its destination before the end commenced its journey and by the time the last float reached the legislative buildings where the parade dispersed, the local speakers had completed their contributions and the broadcasting of the Ottawa program had commenced.

Parade Magnificent

The parade itself was magnificent. Allegorical, historical, symbolical and many other varieties of floats were included. Relics of primitive days on the prairies; a surviving stage coach of the '80's carrying a group of old timers; a party of Indians from the Hobbema reserve with their papooses slung on wooden trailers; cayuses with bridle tied to the tail of the leader; pretty school children presenting novel and original displays; powerful commercial and industrial houses; service clubs; manufacturers; societies representing the polyglot population of the country and many others, were present in pelting profusion. hTe city outdid itself in riotous color, munificence of display and impressiveness.

The occasion marked the first appearance in public of the re-organized Newsboys Band. The sight will

BALDY ROBB IS FREE AT LAST

Baldy Robb is a free man.

He was released from Prince Albert penitentiary Friday, being one of a number throughout Canada who benefitted by federal government jubilee clemency order.

Baldy will pass through Edmonton this evening on the way to his home in Edson. A premature report of Mr. Robb's release was published a few days ago, but proved to be incorrect, though several persons reported at the time that they had seen him on the streets of Edmonton.

Jacques Cote Descendant of 1635 Settler

Central figure in the French-Canadian float in the big Jubilee parade Friday was the youthful Jacques Cote, youngest son of the late Senator Hon. Jean L. Cote, and a direct descendant of Jean Cote, who landed in Canada in 1635. The banner on the float read, "Jean Cote, 1635—Jacques Cote, 1927."

For more than 300 years the Cote family trace their lineage back in Canada under the family name. The eldest son, down through all the line, has always been named Jean. Jean Cote, 18 years, is the eldest son of the late Senator Cote, and is a resident of Edmonton.

One of the most prized possessions of young Jacques Cote is the medal presented to his father, Senator Jean L. Cote, in original French settlers in Can- 1917 and to all descendants of ada. At that time a monument to commemorate the occasion was unveiled at Quebec.

King George Sends Message Forecasting a Greater Canada

"Aims as Lofty and Labors as Strenuous Await Her in Future," Monarch Declares to Governor General

OTTAWA, July 2—Viscount Willingdon, Governor-General of Canada, during Friday's Jubilee celebrations on Parliament Hill, read the following message from the King to the people of Canada:

"Today my people of Canada unite to celebrate the Dominion Jubilee of Confederation; and on such a day they may well look with a just pride on the achievements of the past and with a confident hope to the promises of the future.

"In sixty years the boundaries of confederation have extended tenfold and its governments are now responsible for the welfare of nearly 10,00,000 inhabitants. By labor, peace and sacrifice of war Canada has become a mighty nation.

"Aims as lofty and labors as strenuous await her in future. Within her own bounds her people have before them the task of developing the heritage which their fathers have left them. In a yet wider sphere she has to take an ever-increasing share in guiding counsel and solving problems of the great commonwealth of which she is a part, conscious that within it there is perfect freedom and that the unity of the nations of the British empire is the surest guarantee of peace of the world today.

With all my heart I join in the prayers and hopes of my people throughout the world for the peace and prosperity of Canada.

(Signed.) "GEORGE R.I."

Airmen Escape Unhurt

In Rain, Fog and Darkness Brave Crew Gropes Over France

PARIS, July 2—Commander Richard E. Byrd and his three companions on the trans-Atlantic flight of the giant monoplane America, arrived in Paris from Caen at 12.28 p.m. today, receiving a tremendous ovation from a huge crowd that filled the St. Lazare railroad station and overflowed into every nearby street.

So dense was the throng that Commander Byrd and his companions, after a short reception upon their arrival at the station platform, had fight their way to waiting automobiles while the crowd cheered wildly and threw flowers in their path.

Equal to Lindbergh

Despite a heavy rain, the aviators, who had battled for 42 hours with fog and storm in their trans-Atlantic flight which ended in the early hours of yesterday on the beach at Ver-sur-mer, on the coast of Normandy, 175 miles west of Paris, were given a reception such as that given to Charles A. Lindbergh, who so quickly became the darling of the world on his own epochal flight.

The place du Havre, in front of the St. Lazare station, was crowded as it had not been before in the memory of veteran gendarmes.

Men held women high in the air to watch the passage of the fliers while children wormed their way through inconceivable small places to get into the front line and the big police force stationed along the route had the hardest kind of work keeping a passageway clear for the procession.

All Along Line

The tremendous enthusiasm was not confined to Paris and every station along the line between Caen was jammed with people when the train passed.

So eager were the crowds to see their new heroes that the windows of compartments were broken as passengers jostled and pushed about. After their arrival in Paris, the aviators set out for a local hotel in a drizzling rain while thousands of cheering Parisians braved the wet weather and to shout France's admiration of their skill and courage in their valiant fight against the storm conditions they had encountered throughout their great air voyage.

Normandy to Fore

VER-SUR-MER, France, July 2.—This tiny seaside village of Normandy with the rythmic names sprang into world-wide fame Friday because it marked the end of as romantically adventurous and hazardous a trail as was ever cut through the air in the history of aviation.

Commander Richard E. Byrd and his three companions in scientific aerial adventure were compelled to land here at 3:30 o'clock this morning (French standard time) bringing their great trans-Atlantic monoplane America, down out of pitch black rainy night onto the shore line in water which they could not see.

The machine in which they had left Roosevelt Field, New York, 42 hours earlier, was badly damaged in striking the water and was quickly flooded up to the aviators' shoulders.

Shaken and bruised, the four airmen—Byrd, Noville, Acosta and Balchan—quickly pumped up the pneumatic air raft carried for such an emergency and made their way to shore, 200 yards distant.

Storm-Battered Bird

Last night their three-motored plane rested on the beach like a storm-battered bird, its landing gear torn away, its wings badly damaged and everything about it soaked from lying in the water most of the day.

The brave four, terribly fatigued—having had but a few hours' sleep since the end of their trip—enjoyed the comfort of untrammelled rest at Caen, capital of the department of Calvados, as the guests of the city. It was decided that they should not be forced to undergo the rigors of the reception awaiting them in

YE DIARY

(June 30)

Up betimes, and to my scrivening, for there be muche to do, this being the daye on which the Bulletin big special edition do print, but on my waye to the printery do finde time to call on MilordJoseph Tyrell, the photografique experte, and with him to take a photograf of Amos, my talented woodpecker, so manie there be who, Heaven help me, do doubt his existence, so that I be forced to give ocular proofe that he be not a figment of the imagination. And to my stint, writing of this and that and whatnot, and anon to the Victoria Parke, and to the Elkes Kiddies Daye celebration, and sad I be that I be not a kid again, such a merrie time these youngsters have, and so say to my Dame, but she, heartless wretch, do enquire, "Who said you've grown up?" so that I be forced to take refuge in silence, but Lorde, she means it not, for when we arrive home she do bustle around, preparing brave dishes of friend chicken, with corn cakes, baked to a delicious brownness, and served with trimmings the like of whiche I have never seene before, so goode they be. And strawberries with rich clotted cream, which I do compare unto her complexion and she fond foolish creature do rap me on the heade with the spoone, but Lorde, she like it muche and I do promise her sweet lollipops when nexte I pass the sweeterie of Milord Charles Hepburn, bless her softe hearte.

And to reading the publick printes while lying on the couche after taking a noggin of parsnip wine for my stomick's sake, but so drowsie I be that I do fall asleepe, and awaken onlie when my Dame do declare it be time for bed and to rallying me for the splendid companie I be when I be at home. So passed this daye.

(July 1)

Earlie up, awakened by the booming of cannons and the ringinge of sweet bells, which do usher in the Jubilee of this Canada of ours, and so excited be I that I demand of my Dame that she bring me my musket, so that I may fire a salute from my chamber windowe, but she mouthes many objections, and brings up the laste occasion when I did celebrate with a fusilade, and did shoot holes in my naybors' chickens, which, Heaven helpe me, do coste a prettie pennie, so mad he be, that I take notice of her and desiste.

And to the printery, but there be noughte to do, and thankfull I be that on this daye we do not publishe. And to watching the Jubilee parade, and never better parade did I see, and methinks congratulations be due to the Colonel Primrose, Milord Bill Matthews, and others who have worked so mightilie for it. And to telling my babie that this be a greate occasion, but Lorde, she more interested in the horses and floates, of which I lose count, so magnificent they be and so manie, until she do enquire, "Daddie, where is King George?" and I muste explaine to her that he be the gentleman in the bald head leading the Elkes floate, which Heaven helpe me, she do believe, but so Kinglike he strides along that I cannot helpe it.

And in the afternoone to the Southe Side to watch the sports, and so reckless I be that I wager two shillings on a horse race, and do lose, such lucke be mine, and to home, stoppinge on the way to see the bonfire and fireworks, and such splendor of pyrotechnics do make me gape like a zany until my Dame do saye, "Come home, the babie be sleepinge and your excuse for staying out tonighte be gone," but Lorde, so wearie I be that I be glad, albeit I make pretense at grumblinge mightilie. And to bed, wearilie enough, and thankfull I be that the Jubilee celebration comes not oftener, and so saye to my Dame, but she, heartless wretch, do declare it be because I am getting old, but I too weary to denye it, and so to sleepe. So passed this daye, a greate daye, and one long to be remembered, so full of incident it be and so manie speeches I heare.

(July 2)

All this direful daye did bills pour in, so that I be almost frantique, and how to pay them I know not, nor do I care so desperate I be, but shall henceforth throw them in the wastebaskette or grinde them under my heele, mouthinge bitter curses the while, for Lorde! there be nought of future before me, except, Heaven helpe me, the debtor's prison, or mayhap a long trip over the hill to the poorhouse and a pauper's grave. And so distressed I be that I do throw the dice, and they do come seven, which means travel, and I do so tell my editor, and he do gove me a pass for the Pacifique Coaste, to whiche I go this nighte for ten dayes, caring noughte of my scrivening and leaving Amos, my talented woodpecker, to get alonge as best he can, so harassed I be.

So passed this daye, July 2, a pleasant daye for some, but a foule day for me, which I make haste to escape, and glad I be that there be no more scrivening for at least ten dayes.

Here's the worst story we heard today. It was told by Jock McNeill to Rev. Dr. D. G. McQueen, so it must be true.

Jock says he has a Scotch farmer friend in the country roundabout for whom he drums up trade occasionally. Last week he arranged for his friend to supply a local butcher with 12 chickens, and on Saturday morning the farmer duly arrived in Edmonton with the crate of poultry. When the butcher went to count them, however, there were only 11 birds in the crate. The farmer did not appear again until late in the evening, but when he came he brought the missing bird.

"You were a long time with that one," commented the butcher.

"Aye, replied the canny Scot. "Aye, but ye ken when I brocht the ither birds in the morn, this yin had no laid the day."

German King of Film and Press May Swing Nation to Monarchy

One Man New Holds Tremendous Power Over Opinion

By MILTON BRONNER

LONDON, July 2.—Introducing Herr Doktor Hugenberg—King of Public Opinion, Duke of Newspaperdom, Prince of Films.

He is, according to the party to which a person belongs, one of the best liked or one of the most feared and hated men in Germany. The German Nationalist, who are kaiser lovers, adore him. All the genuine republicans hate him.

Still in the early forties, a multi-millionaire, he is the most powerful ally the friends of monarchy have in Germany.

The monocled officers, the princes kicked from thrones, the junkers on their broad agricultural acres, the professors in the universities, the judges in the court—all these make up a formidable army of people who would like to see Germany once more ruled by a crowned head. But all of them together haven't as much power and influence as Herr Doktor Hugenberg.

When it comes to the newspaper game, the Herr Doktor is an octopus all by himself. He ownes some of the biggest and most powerful Nationalist daily newspapers in Germany. He owns many of its most popular weeklies. Magazines and publications of all sorts pour from his busy presses.

That would have been power enough for most men, but Hugenberg has gone farther. Not long ago UFA was in trouble. It had been losing money. It needed new capital and fresh blood. The Herr Doktor supplied both. Now he's boss of UFA.

You may not know what UFA means. It's an abbreviation of the title of a great film producing and distributing agency. The most famous German movies are UFA movies. The best stars in Germany are UFA stars. Many of the finest movie houses in Germany—150 of them—are UFA properties. UFA makes about 75 per cent of the German films.

What worries the republicans is this—films appeal to people even more than do their newspapers. Films can be given a prejudicial twist which is valuable in politics. And the republicans are wondering whether ther Herr Doktor is going to make German films organs of nationalist and monarchist propaganda. If he does, they will be helpless. For he will be alone and supreme in his field with no other German film king able to match him film for film.

Herr Doktor Hugenberg

Trans-Canada Flight to Start During Next Week

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 2.—Capt Edward Charles Dobbin, former Canadian Air Force pilot, will start on his Montreal-Vancouver seaplane flight early on the morning of July 5 or 6, according to the latest advices received here. He intends to accomplish the passage within 42 hours, for 32 of which he will be winging his way westward with the first consignment of trans-Canada mail. The aviator will fly a De Haviland seaplane. He will make three fuelling stops — Sault Ste. Marie, Winnipeg, and Macleod, Alta.

Wolf Pelts Gain Strength At Close Seattle Market

SEATTLE, July 2.—With blue fox selling at a top price of $184, the Seattle fur exchange closed its June auction Thursday. The next sale will be held July 27. One lot of $30 blue fox pelts brought an average of $86, while the average for the entire collection was $78. Beaver was sold on the open market basis, the best lot bringing $38.50. The average for the collection was $30.50. Wolf sold at an advance of 10 per cent over the previous sale, the best lot being bid in at $21.50. Timber wolf brought as high as $35, and fisher sold well, the best being taken at $84. Wolverine showed an increase of 5 per cent, the best being sold at $35.50. The average for the group was $25.50. Bear showed no improvement. Miscellaneous items were almost all sold at full market values.

An immigrant who came to Canada one year ago obtained his first Bible in the home of a farmer. He so prized the Book that in his first year of Canadian life he has bought five more Bibles, and sent them to his people in the old land. This has a significance for Canadians who consider in this Jubilee year the high destiny of their country.

Veteran Minister Planning Extensive Series of Works

Rev. Principal Millar returned on Tuesday from a visit to the field occupied by Rev. J. E. Duclos, B.A., during the past eleven years at Bonnyville.

A committee of the Alberta conference of the United Church was appointed to survey conditions throughout this vast territory in the St. Paul Presbytery. Dr. Millar went to St. Paul de Metis on Friday, where he met the student missionary, E. J. Thompson, B.A., who is doing excellent work at that point. At Bonnyville two services were held on Sunday. In the afternoon, the beautiful and commodious church was filled with people who came long distances, and represented various races, Scandinavian, French, etc.

A forty-mile trip brought the party to Cold Lake, where another anniversary service was held, a large number of people, speaking different languages, being again present.

Anniversary Services

These services were all of an anniversary character, eleven years having passed since Rev. J. E. Duclos resigned his charge in this city, and went to Bonnyville at the invitation of some of his French compatriots. Since that time he has accomplished a marvellous work, not only amongst French-Canadians, but also among other races. His aim has been to cement the different races in one community.

An astonishing transformation has taken place during these eleven years. Through Mr. Duclos' initiative and perseverance and dauntless courage, six churches have been built, two beautiful and well equipped hospitals, one at Bonnyville and one at Cold Lake, and two school homes have been established.

The heroes of the Cross are not in the past alone. Few have done more valuable human service amid pioneer conditions and hardships than this Christian soldier who is giving the last lap of his rich and noble ministry, extending over 40 years, to frontier mission work.

STIRS CHURCH

When Rev. Henry Lewis, rector of an Ann Arbor, Mich., Episcopal church suggested that the church consider whether or not "unmarried unions" should be certified by the church, he stirred a storm of discussion at the recent Episcopal congress in San Francisco. Dr. Lewis cited the companionate marriage idea proposed by Judge Ben Lindsey, of Denver.

NEW MINISTER IS SUCCEEDING

It is very interesting to see how effectively the church work can be carried on in the country.

As an instance it shall be mentioned, the work effected by the new minister at Markerville, Happy Hill and Centreville in the Red Deer district: Rev. Earl Gray.

Mr. Gray believes in organizing all the local forces for religious purpose, his motto being: "Alone I can do nothing, but if all join together we can do anything."

At Markerville the musical part of the services is built up by an excellent orchestra and choir, a charming little children's choir and a clever male quartet. Further you will have the chance of enjoying vocal duets and various instrumental selections.

Mr. Gray's sermons are intelligible, yet going into the very hearts of the listeners. He is at present giving a series of sermons entitled: "Some of the Greatest Things in the World," the titles of the separate sermons being: "The Value of Patience," "The Importance of Partnership," "The Necessity of Love," and "Belief."

It is noticeable that these services are attended by appreciative and good sizes audience.

St. Joseph's Cathedral to Celebrate Confederation

A solemn high mass of thanksgiving will be sung on Sunday morning at St. Joseph's Cathedral, as a token of gratitude to God for the prosperity which Canada has enjoyed during the past sixty years of her history. The part that Catholics have taken not only in her early colonizing, but also in her later progress and development will be the subject of the sermon which will be preachd by His Grace, Archbishop O'Leary.

This service will be broadcast.

A special service will be held also in the evening at 7:30 at which the Catholic Boy Scouts and Girl Guides of the City will assist. This impressive service will include the Blessing of a a Canadian Ensign, the consecration of our country to the Sacred Heart by pupils of Grandin school representing the different provinces, sermon, hymns by the Cathedral choir and pontifical benediction of the blessed sacrament by His Grace Archbishop O'Leary.

Newfoundland Conference Is Holding Big Parley

The Newfoundland Conference of the United Church of Canada is meeting this week in Gower street church, St. John's. Rev. Principal MacKinnon of Pine Hill college, Halifax, is the inspirational speaker. He will deliver addresses at the opening of the conference; at the ordination service on Monday evening; will preach in the Conference church on Sunday evening and speak each day of the conference at noon-hour. There will be two secretaries of leading boards of the church also present. Rev. Dr. Manning will speak on the "Maintenance and Extension Fund" and Rev. Dr. McLachlan on "Evangelism and Social Service." Rev. Dr. Curtis, one of the veteran ministers who, in the days of Methodism in the colony, was prominent, will deliver two of the leading addresses. One in on "Education in Newfoundland" and the other entitled, "The Call to the Service." Rev. E. C. French is the president and Rev. C. R. Blount, secretary.

Rev. J. M. Millar, D.D., At Robertson on Sunday

Rev. J. M. Millar, D.D., will be the preacher at Robertson United church on Sunday morning, choosing as his topic, "The Real Tests of a Nation's Greatness."

Under the direction of Hayden Morris the "white-robed junior choir" will render the anthem, "Where the Flag of Britain Flies," and Mrs. W. P. MacDonald will sing Sir Edward Elgar's "Land of Hope and Glory."

It is pointed out that during July and August only morning services will be held at Robertson.

CANADA'S GUEST

Canada today has the privilege of extending hospitality to Col. Lindbergh and of paying official tribute to his great achievement. The welcome which greets him at Ottawa is only the formal expression of the admiration with whcih the whole Canadian people regard his exploit, and the wish they would convey that he may be able to render still greater service to the development of aviation and win fresh laurels in the doing.

When Lindbergh flew from New York to Paris he also flew from comparative obscurity into world-wide fame. Such sudden success might easily have turned his head, and would have done so had his countrymen been right when tey characterized him a "flying fool". Lindbergh is not by any means a fool. He is daring enough surely, but he keeps himself in hand. That self-possession is the thing that marks the difference between a real man and the kind of man his critics thought him to be.

EDMONTON DOES ITS PART

The Jubilee will be long remembered by everyone who celebrated it at Edmonton. The weather on both Thursday and Friday was magnificent, the program splendid, and the crowds great beyond precedent. While the throng was dense and enthusiasm ran high, particularly on Dominion Day, good humor and good conduct prevailed and mishaps were few.

The parade surpassed anything of the kind ever previously attempted here, and it is doubtful if anywhere in the West—Winnipeg included—there was turned out a procession whih better represented the historic aspects of the demonstration, or the commercial progress that has been attained by the local community.

Edmonton has cause to be proud of its part in the national fete. There has been no break at this link in the chain of celebrations running from ocean to ocean, and no fall-down in the way the arrangements were carried through.

With the proceedings this afternoon and the special services tomorrow, those who had to do with the arranging and carrying out of the program, and the people of the city, may feel that the event has been in every way worthy of the occasion; and the people of the province that their capital city has fully kept standing with the other seats of Government in our broad Dominion.

THE EMPIRE IN THE NORTH

In taking stock of what has been accomplished in the development of Canada in the last sixty years, a glance at the map is sufficient to show in what direction development must take place in the future. It is to the north that Canadians must turn their faces, and in the exploration, opening up and utilizing of that great domain now known as the "hinterland" the coming generation will find a vast field for adventurous enterprise.

In the course of more than a half century we have flung a belt of settlement across the plains, and made approximately one-third of the Dominion available to productive industry. The conquest of the other two-thirds has scarcely more than begun. But the beginnings have shown that the rewards to be won are well worth the effort.

The great, practically the only, hindrance to a more rapid exploitation of the northland is the popular apprehension of the climate. "The North" is thought of as a country too cold to be the abode of civilized people in large numbers and engaged in the ordinary occupations of life; a country where the trapper and the trader alone can find the means of livelihood.

But the worst that is thought now of the northern climate is no worse than the best that was thought of western Canada by the people of the eastern provinces when the Dominion was organized. The country which now produces three hundred million bushels of wheat per year was then regarded as a region where only the Indian and the buffalo could thrive.

The importance of that fact, in its bearing upon the present view of the climatic conditions and the wealth-producing possibilities of the northland, can scarcely be over-estimated. Who knows, in the light of what has happened in the West, but that the next generation will be growing cereal crops and running cattle in the valley of the Mackenzie river?

And, whatever the possibilities of extending the farming area northward, there is no room for doubt as to the timber and mineral and power resources which there await development.

Northern Quebec is known to be a vast forest, underlain with minerals, and traversed by streams capable of producing uncalculated electric energy.

Ontario is building a railway to James Bay, not to find another outlet to the ocean, but to permit the exploration and adaptation of the natural resources of its great northern region.

The Hudson Bay Railway may or may not be [illegible] as a wheat carrier, but it will be contradic[illegible] all precedent if there is not discovered min[illegible] timber in the region it passes through which [illegible] the basis for great industrial activity [illegible] wilderness.

T. P.

From one end of Canada to the other attention is thus being turned to the north, and wherever the hinterland has been invaded there has been found wealth in one form or another. It is there that the future of Canada lies; in the vast storehouse of unused resources of almost infinite variety which only await the genius of man and the application of capital to turn them to account.

A second Edmonton boy, Jasques Cote, son of the late Senator Cote, shares with James Montizambert the honor of being able to trace descent back through nearly three hundred years to the first French settlers in Canada. It will therefore be in order for the city to provide two medals, one for each of these representatives of the first white Canadians.

Calgary police have unearthed a curious old by-law which states that "No person shall place any vehicle without horses upon any street of the said municipality." Needless to say, this legislation was framed in the days when the automobile was not yet invented. But it has not been repealed, and under the provision quoted a man was fined the other day for parking a truck in a lane. A lively and interesting situation would arise if the police undertook to prosecute everyone—themselves included—who has violated this clause during the last twenty years.

A Silver Tee Set

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Good friend, when fad and fashion rage
To mark the splendor of our age,
And silversmith and goldsmith vie
To capture man's admiring eye
With trinkets of ornate design,
I take this latest gift of thine
And hold it up that all may see
The dude that thou has made of me.

From thee a silver tee set comes
To bear the pressure of my thumbs;
To rest upon the grassy ground,
Envied by all who stand around;
A tee set, with a glistening chain,
Of which no single link is plain,
Holding a plate, on which I see
'Graved deep, the letters: E. A. G.

Said I to her I love so well,
To whom my every thought I tell:
"What think you Hawkins gave to me?"
She could not guess what it could be.
"A gift you've wanted long," said I,
"A gift I can't afford to buy,
A solid silver tee set, sweet,
Initialed, boxed, and all complete."

'Twere shame to trick her, I confess,
To raise her hopes of happiness,
But truth I told, nor could she tell
That golfing tee sets jewelers sell.
And when, within her hand I placed,
Those silver golf tees, carved and chaste,
A sneer across her features sped:
Could looks destroy, we'd both be dead!

Do You Remember?

FORTY YEARS AGO

From the Edmonton Bulletin, Saturday, June 25th, 1887.

On Thursday last before A. H. Griesbach J.P., Frank Oliver was charged with maliciously killing, maining, etc., two domestic fowls, the property of Walter Scott Robertson, on May 25th last. Plaintiff Robertson admitted trespass and damage by fowls, and only knew of one being injured and it was killed by his son. Defendant fined $10 and costs.

Capt. and Mrs. Bell and son, a Sister of Charity E. H. Black and John Hawkesley arrived from Calgary on Wednesday. Capt Bell goes to the McKenzie river to take charge of the H.B. steamer built last winter by Capt. Smith. The Sister goes to the Roman Catholic diocese of Athabasca-McKenzie, and Messrs. Black and Hawkesley are on the way to the McKenzie river in the service of the missionary society of the Church of England.

Bishop Young of the Church of England diocese of Athabasca arrived from Vermilion, Peace River, on Wednesday. Last season was quite favorable for crops at Vermilion, wheat, barley and potatoes yielding well and ripening. The Bishop ordained Rev. G. Holmes, deacon, at Dunvegan and Rev. Mr. Scott at Vermilion. The weather in the north was mild until New Year. The coldest recorded was 52 below about the end of January. The snow was about two feet deep. On May 7th, Mr. Spencer of the H.B. Co. was married by the Bishop to Miss Elmore daughter of Mr. Elmore, proprietor of a trading post at Vermilion. The Bishop is of opinion that in both soil and climate an immense area of the Peace River district is fitted for agricultural settlement, only lacking means of communication with the outside world to make it available.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

From the Edmonton Bulletin, Thursday, July 1st, 1897.

S. Ratcliffe of England is registered at the Alberta. He came out to meet C. G. Cowan, and they start for the north tomorrow on an extended hunting trip.

A quiet wedding took place at South Edmonton last night when Miss Lizzie Kershaw became the bride of Mr. J. B. Lubbock of this place. Rev. W. B. Chegwin performed the ceremony.

A special meeting of the town council was held last night in the office of P. Heiminck & Co., to consider the purchase of a market site.

His Honor Lieut. Governor Mackintosh on the 22nd, received the following telegram: "From my heart I thank my beloved people. May God bless them. Victoria R.I." His Honor on behalf of the North West TerrItories sent the following message in reply: "With profound respect I tender Her Most Gracious Majesty the congratulations of Her Majesty's loyal and devoted subjects throughout the Canadian North West Territories."

Between the dual attractions of sports on the south side and the steamboat excursion on the river the town is completely deserted today, and has a decided Sunday appearance.

The informal dance, held in honor of Miss Herchmer at the golf club quarters on Monday night was an unqualified success.

Capt Segars, formerly of the H.B. steamer Athabasca, but now of San Francisco, came in on last train. He has rented an office in town and will buy furs here.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

From the Edmonton Daily Bulletin, Monday, July 1st, 1907.

Lieutenant Governor Bulyea opened the second Provincial Indurtrial exhibition at the fair grounds this afternoon.

The Hague—Representatives of the triple alliance, comprising Austria, Germany and Italy, at the peace conference here propose that merchant vessels shall be made immune from capture during war time.

Mrs. Bulyea this morning laid the corner stone of Edmonton's new Y.M.C.A. building. R. B. Chadwick is general secretary of the organization.

TEN YEARS AGO

From the Morning Bulletin, Monday, July 2nd, 1917.

Niagara—Nine people were drowned here when a belt line car plunged over the cliff into the river.

Pekin—General Chang Hsun has informed President Li Yuan Hung that he must retire, as the emperor Hsuan Tung has been restored to the throne.

Washington—Twenty three states went bone dry at midnight last night.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Diet Specialist and Author of "The Fast Way to Health

Questions on Health and Diet answered by Dr. McCoy, when addressed in care of The Edmonton Bulletin.

TONS OF TALLOW

I have just completed a lecture tour of the North American continent, delivering two or three lectures in each city visited. One of the lectures in each city was given on the subject of "Reducing". More than 100,000 persons attended these anti-fat lectures and the average of those weighed on the scales showed weight in excess of 50 pounds to each person. Many thousands listened in on the radio, as the lectures were usually given over the radio at the same time. Still more thousands who read the reducing articles are following my instructions which appear in the newspapers following the lectures.

Dr. Frank McCoy

Just think of this "big" audience of 100,000, at which I actually looked, and which had carried into the lecture halls over 5,000,000 pounds of excess baggage in the form (misshapen forms?) of tallow!

It was a grand and glorious sight to see so many who are awakening to the knowledge that it is both dangerous and unsightly to be overweight. If you folks could have been with me, you would have been surprised at the thousands of questions which were asked me after the lectures about the cure of every disease from "A" to "Z", from which those fat people were suffering. Many of my readers write to me, asking how they can increase their weight. So many believe that extra poundage means just so much increased health. If you could listen to the troubles of these fat folks, you would be satisfied to stay thin, at least, until your weight increased because you learn how to live a more healthful life.

These people who are overweight are not alone handicapped by the actual poundage which makes them tired to carry it around, but they in- toxemias which finally produce seri- variably suffer from dangerous ous disorders. Such diseases as goitre, hardening of the arteries, etc., are as frequently found among the fat as the lean.

When the one who is corpulent contracts any of these ailments, it is much harder for him to get rid of it than for the person who is underweight. The excess fat must be first taken off before the disease toxemia can be properly eliminated. That is why those who are fat usually cannot recover from an acute disease.

Those readers who are overweight and who have not had the privilege of listening to the "Reducing" lecture may feel free to write to me in care of this paper, and I will be pleased to send complete instructions on how to reduce. Just send a large self-addressed envelope and you will be sent a special article which I have prepared on the subject. I am doing everything I can to help the fat folks who are earnest about wanting to reduce. The same general instructions are good for every one who is overweight, but you are invited to tell me your personal problems and I will help you in every way I can through personal advice by correspondence.

Question. A Worried Parent writes: "My boy never wants to eat vegetables. He always perspires very freely when sleeping. What can I do to make him eat more wholesome foods and prevent this excessive perspiring so he can get strong?"

Answer: Your boy is not weak because he perspires, but because he is suffering from some toxemia in his body. His life is really being saved because he perspires and gets rid of some of these poisons during sleep. The best way to get him to eat green vegetables is to give him a fast for a few days and when he starts eating again give him only the foods he should have, and you will find he will be hungry for anything. Follow closely the menus which appear every week in this column.

Question: Ben L. H. writes: "I am a boy eighteen years old and weigh only 108 pounds—always was under weight. I get up in the mornings and cannot eat. No appetite—no pep—no life whatever. I have throwing-up spells quite often. Please tell me what to do."

Answer: Your under-weight is no doubt caused by some functional disorder of the liver, gall-bladder, or stomach. Have a diagnosis made and then write me the results, and I will send you the best advice I can.

Comment

REFORESTATION

Le Canada (Lib.)—The immediate result of reforestation undertaken at the present time will be the conservation of our forests. These are a great possession, but not inexhaustible if they are abandoned to their natural capacity for reproduction. This property of ours will not be a permanent possession, unless we set about its exploitation in a reasonable manner.

EMPIRE SPIRIT ALL THE YEAR

Montreal Star: It is an excellent idea to gather together on a given day and look back with pride upon the achievements of the Empire to which we belong, to recall the character of the men and women who made those achievements possible, and to take courage and example from their triumphs and their sacrifices. But unless we hold fast to the enthusiasms of that given day and at the same time with the pride of true humility, pursue throughout the year the resolutions we have voiced under the spell of those enthusiasms, we shall fail in our duty to our Empire and our native land.

THE ANGLO-RUSSIAN CRISIS

Quebec Action Catholique (Ind.)—(The question which it is really difficult to answer is not why the British government have expelled the Soviet agents, but why the Soviet agents were ever permitted in the country.) Commercial relations were opened with Russia under the pressure of high finance which was only thinking of business. These relations led to the renewal of diplomatic relations, which were in force until the moment when the Chinese imbroglio imperilled in its turn British capital invested in Shanghai and elsewhere. . . . If the British had paid some attention to history and its lessons; if those who knew better had been less influenced by those who were out for immediate profits, they would have been more cautious in dealing with the Bolshevists and they would not have run into this exceedingly difficult situation at the present time.

Sunshine Shafts

Alfred was smoking a cigarette by the fire, when his wife entered and said, "What do you think? Mother says she has made up her mind to be cremated."

"Good," said Alfred, jumping up. "I'll go and order a taxi."

A new minimum for an opening No Trump bid was noted in a recent game. A certain convival young man dealt and bid a No Trump; all passed. Dummy put his hand down and remarked:

"Well, I can't imagine what you bid No Trump on when I have three Aces and four Kings."

"Well, if you want to know," the Declarer said, "I bid it on one Jack with two Queens and three cocktails."

A good story against himself was told the other day by the Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, M. P.

When, in January, 1924, he was appointed Secretary of State for the Colonies, the first thing he did, naturally, was to visit the Colonial Office.

Not knowing who he was, nobody took any particular notice of him, and after wandering for some time about the maze of corridors he decided to ask the way to his office.

The man he accosted, also unaware of identity, asked him if he was employed there.

"Yes," said Thomas.

"How long have you been here?" was the next question.

"Oh, I only got the job quite recently."

"Same here," declared the other. "But now that they're cutting down the staff I expect we'll both be out of a job again soon."

"As a matter of fact," Mr. Thomas added in finishing the story, "I soon got the sack, as you know, but they kept the other fellow on!"

He Built an Empire But — NEGLECTED HIS TEETH
Not long since Dr. C. Mayo was called to the bedside of a famous American millionaire and found him suffering from a disease of the bowels, which Dr. Mayo attributed to decayed and neglected teeth, the poison from which was swallowed with the food and set up fatal complications which resulted in his death. "There is not a particle of doubt," says Dr. Mayo, "that this great and useful man's life could have been prolonged many years if he had given generous nature a fighting chance by fortifying his naturally rugged constitution with a sound, healthy mouth."
Maybe the neglect was caused by fear, ignorance, indifference or pressure of business, but whatever the cause the effect remains the same and the penalty, from which there was no appeal, was paid in full. SEE—

Jungle Breath

© 1927 by NEA Service

by Ben Lucien Burman

She stood in the door and threw a kiss from lips that still showed powder stains. "Intended for you, Mr. Nunnally," she called blithely.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Attempts have been made on the life of ELISE MARBERRY, an American girl who owns and manages considerable property near the little town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil.

Several mysterious deaths have occurred, but so far she has escaped harm, due to the shrewdness of her cousin and protector, VILAK, who masquerades as her attorney under the name of DAVIS. Vilak is a curious mixture of American and Oriental blood and a student of criminology. He tries to persuade Elise to leave the country, leaving him there with his friend, LINCOLN NUNNALLY, an elderly American chemist, to solve the mystery.

Elise at first refuses, but after her two-year-old orphaned nephew is kidnapped, to be found again by the alert Vilak, and another attempt is made on their lives, she agrees.

Her departure is prevented by the threat of floods. Messengers ride through the countryside warning the natives. Then Vilak decides to proceed to the house of one GAYLORD PENTISS and warn him of the danger. Prentiss is a recluse and a forbidding man, as well as an enemy of Elise's, and she suspects him of some knowledge of the conspiracy against her. Nevertheless, she agrees that it is their duty to warn him.

Vilak learns that the flood warning is a ruse to get Prentiss out of his house. The party is besieged in a small stone tower on Prentiss' property by unknown attackers. Vilak disperses them by dynamiting the dam holding a small lake in check and flooding the property. When the water recedes they go to join Prentiss in his house but he is gone.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI

Vilak strode outside once more. He bent over and began examining the ground and around some stones which formed the structure's foundation. There was nothing.

"I confess, I'm beaten," he grunted to his companions, and shrugged his shoulders.

They started to descend the low slope to the creek, plunging through mud that came to their knees, forcing their way through a wild tangle of muddy, dripping branches. There was a suspicious crackle somewhere off in the brush. Nunnally silently pointed his small finger toward it and looked at Vilak questioningly.

His friend shook his head. "No, you needn't worry. Just an animal or something of the sort. Whatever else I don't know, I feel fairly sure that our friends won't bother us here anymore tonight. But what effect this affair will have on the future I don't know either."

Elise cast a quick glance back at the house, with its many towers appearing in the mist like some gigantic many-headed beast.

She took his arm. "Let's get away from here," she murmured. "The place frightens me. I don't want to come here again. I know it's silly, but I feel instinctively that there's something wrong. Something sort of . . . tainted . . . polluted . . . wherever Prentiss has been. The natives are right, Vilak. He is abnormal. All the time he was in the tower I felt it. A creeping, crawling sort of sensation. As if he weren't . . . quite human."

"When he was close to me, shooting, I could hardly keep from shuddering every time I looked at him. And all the while we were there together not a word of gratitude, not a word of confidence. He doesn't like me, Vilak. It took a number of painful lessons to learn it, but I've learned it now. And I think you've got to take that into consideration in explaining his disappearance."

"What do you mean?" Vilak's voice was interested.

"Merely that he doubted the success of your plan to free the lake above, and then because he knew every inch of the fazenda, thought of a way to escape which was certain and didn't tell us because by the simple expedient of not doing so, he would be rid of me and my attorney as well, incidentally.

"A nice idea and one which would have appealed to his father. We drive off his enemies for him, whoever they are, then he lets us drown and the claimants to his property are done for. After all, blowing up that dam was a rather desperate thing to do, very likely to fail. After you suggested it, and he pretended to protest, I saw him smile, that same cruel, crafty smile he had when he tried to run me down with his horse and later set the dog on me."

"Humph." Vilak puffed meditatively. "Just when was this? I didn't notice."

"You couldn't. You were leaning over with your back turned, fixing the dynamite."

They reached the spot where only a little while before they had entered the fazenda. The gate and a large section of the wall to which it had given passage had disappeared. Vilak's flashlight showed part of the ironwork snagged in the branches of a great tree forty feet down the creek. A deep gully now marked the course of the tiny stream, though its waters had subsided to their previous shallowness.

They crossed, stepping warily through the welter of mud and vegetation, climbed to the lakes above and reached the end of the path at the thorn thicket where they had abandoned their horses. The animals were no longer there.

The old man, who had been walking along, absorbedly gazing at the ground, looked up quickly. "They've gone to their . . . er . . . stables. Do you . . . er . . . think, Vilak?"

"Undoubtedly, Nanny."

"It's . . . er . . . just as well." He nervously toyed with the bandage on his arm. "Intelligent beast the . . . er . . . horse . . . But vigorous. I think I shall be just as . . . er . . . happy if I do not ride anymore tonight."

They walked briskly to the fazenda, found it deserted except for the three horses, which were quietly nibbling in their stalls, then rode out to Chacos Hill to bring back the baby. They reached it and found the child safe in the care of the frizzly haired Hannah, who placidly sat in the dog-cart a few feet off from a frightened huddled mass of negroes and half-castes who stood straining their eyes and ears for some signs of a flood which strangely did not come.

The cavalcade set off again as it had started in the afternoon toward the boat, Elise and the two men preceding the light vehicle. The natives stubbornly refused to follow, shaking their heads in gloomy denial when Elise told them that the report of the bursting dam was false. They returned to the wharf, and left the driver to stand guard and notify them in case of the steamboat's arrival, then Elise took the reins herself, and the cavalcade slowly wended its way back toward her home.

On leaving Prentiss' she had felt depressed, but as she rode in the cool night air, her spirits constantly grew lighter. By the time she was again on the steps of her dim-lighted veranda she was buoyant.

"Why go to bed at all tonight, my children?" she asked, as one of her prize roosters in the far-off chicken yard began to sound its first salute to the morning. "The sun will be up in an hour or two. I think we rather deserve some sort of celebration. I'll make some sandwiches and coffee and we can see the sun rise. They're perfectly beautiful here. Worth sitting up for. We can play bridge or Canfield meanwhile. What do you say?"

"Sorry to be a kill-joy. I'd rather not."

She looked at Vilak reproachfully. "You're afraid I'll beat you and make up for what you've done to me all the other nights, aren't you? You know I can't help but beat you when I'm so full of energy. You're a slacker. Why won't you sit up?"

"I've got to work. It's absurd of you to be so intelligent and ambitious at this hour of the morning. Go to bed please. I'll be happier."

"Very well, venerated captain. I'll sit up in my room and watch the sun rise alone." She stood in the door and threw a kiss from lips that still showed powder stains. "Intended for Mr. Nunnally, not for you," she called blithely, and disappeared.

A moment later Vilak bade good night to the old man. Going to his flamboyantly draped room, he donned his dressing gown, a garment of extraordinary beauty which had been given him by a grateful Chinaman in Pekin. Of heavy, lustrous purple silk, it was profusely worked with thousands of tiny gold dragons, one single shining serpent forming the weighty hem. Then he a small portable talking machine, opened one of his trunks, took out set it on a grotesquely carved stand and put onto the turn-table one of those squeaky, wailing Chinese records which each night assail the ears of the slant-eyed dwellers in the pungent tenements of New York's Mott Street.

He closed the doors of his room tightly; the machine began to grind out its harsh piercing discord. He put a bit of betel in his mouth and began pacing the floor in great long strides. The music jangled, screamed, grated, clanged. It ceased. He started it once more, and recommenced his swift pacing, turning sharply as the wall barred his way like an angry lion in its cage in a zoo.

Time after time the machine ran down and the shrill music ceased; time after time he wound it. In the dim-lighted, shadowy room he appeared like some Oriental priest doing obeisance before his god.

Morning began to touch the horizon. He put away the record, lit a cigaret and stretched out on his couch to sleep a few hours. At eight o'clock he arose, ate a scant breakfast, then made his way alone to Prentiss' house once more and made a more elaborgte search than the darkness had permited.

He found the fazenda still deserted. He returned to Elise's plantation, obtained ten or twelve laborers and brought them to the parasole pine and thorn thicket which marked the entrance to the lands of the vanished archeologist.

Vilak directed the man in setting small fires in a wide area over the brush. Soon the flames were leaping fiercely, hissing and steaming as the tangled vegetation, despite its wetness, ignited. Nunnally, who had accompanied him, looked on wonderingly. "What are you . . . er . . . doing, Vilak?" he queried. "Trying to . . . er . . . drive something out of the brush?"

Vilak gave a curt order to a native. "Trying to prevent another tragedy, that's all."

Tinky disappears again and once more Elise and her friends begin a search for the child and his kidnappers.

Prospects Brighten for Coda

I HAVE GONE OVER THE ADOPTION DECREE WHICH AWARDED SKEEZIX TO WALT WALLET, ALSO THE TESTIMONY IN THE CASE, COL. CODA. THERE MAY BE A POINT OR TWO ON WHICH WE MIGHT BASE A PLEA BUT IN GENERAL IT IS ABOUT AIRTIGHT AND LEGALLY SOUND.
BUT JUDGE MOLDER, THERE MUST BE SOME WAY. I MUST HAVE HIM. THAT'S WHY I CAME TO YOU.
OF COURSE, OF COURSE. NOW I ADVISE GOING BEFORE THE COURT AT THE EARLIEST POSSIBLE MOMENT WITH A PETITION TO HAVE THE DECREE SET ASIDE NOT ON THE GROUNDS OF A FAULTY DECREE BUT ON THE COMMON LAW RIGHT OF A FATHER TO HIS SON. WE MUST CONVINCE THE JUDGE THAT JUSTICE HAS NOT BEEN DONE.
THAT SOUNDS BETTER JUDGE.
YOU AS A FATHER HAD A RIGHT TO KNOW YOUR SON WAS BEING TAKEN FROM YOU. WHAT EFFORT WAS MADE TO FIND YOU? NONE. YOU HAD NOT KNOWINGLY NEGLECTED HIM AND IT WAS THROUGH NO FAULT OF YOURS THAT HIS MOTHER ABANDONED HIM.
THAT IS BOTH LOGICAL AND TRUE. I SEE NO REASON WHY WE SHOULDN'T WIN. IT IS IMPERATIVE THAT WE DO.

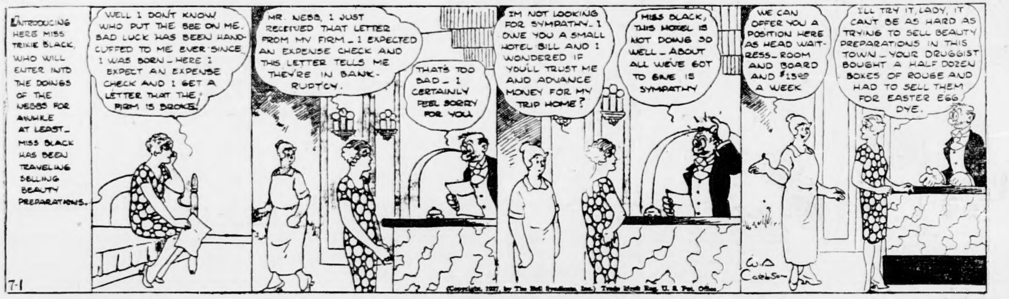
THE NEBBS

Look Who's Here!

—By Sol Hess



INTRODUCING HERE MISS TRIXIE BLACK, WHO WILL ENTER INTO THE DOINGS OF THE NEBBS FOR AWHILE AT LEAST - MISS BLACK HAS BEEN TRAVELING SELLING BEAUTY PREPARATIONS.
WELL I DON'T KNOW WHO PUT THE BEE ON ME. BAD LUCK HAS BEEN HANDCUFFED TO ME EVER SINCE I WAS BORN - HERE I EXPECT AN EXPENSE CHECK AND I GET A LETTER THAT THE FIRM IS BROKE!
MR. NEBB, I JUST RECEIVED THAT LETTER FROM MY FIRM - I EXPECTED AN EXPENSE CHECK AND THIS LETTER TELLS ME THEY'RE IN BANKRUPTCY.
THAT'S TOO BAD - I CERTAINLY FEEL SORRY FOR YOU
I'M NOT LOOKING FOR SYMPATHY - I OWE YOU A SMALL HOTEL BILL AND I WONDERED IF YOU'LL TRUST ME AND ADVANCE MONEY FOR MY TRIP HOME?
MISS BLACK, THIS HOTEL IS NOT DOING SO WELL - ABOUT ALL WE'VE GOT TO GIVE IS SYMPATHY
WE CAN OFFER YOU A POSITION HERE AS HEAD WAITRESS - ROOM AND BOARD AND $15.00 A WEEK
I'LL TRY IT, LADY, IT CAN'T BE AS HARD AS TRYING TO SELL BEAUTY PREPARATIONS IN THIS TOWN - YOUR DRUGGIST BOUGHT A HALF DOZEN BOXES OF ROUGE AND HAD TO SELL THEM FOR EASTER EGG DYE.

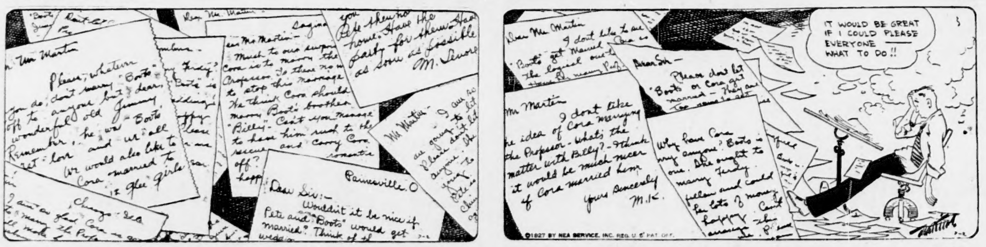
BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES

Wotta Life

—By Martin



Mr Martin
Please, whatever you do, don't marry "Boots" off to anyone but dear, wonderful old Jimmy. Remember, he was "Boots'" 1st love and we all
We would also like to Cora married to
Much to our surprise Cora is to marry the Professor. Is there no way to stop this marriage
We think Cora should marry Boots brother "Billy" - Can't you manage to have him rush to the rescue and carry Cora off?
Pete there no home. Have the party for them as soon as possible
M. Sewore
Chicago, Ill.
Painesville, O
Dear Sir:- Wouldn't it be nice if Pete and "Boots" would get married? Think of the wedding
Dear Mr Martin
I don't like to see "Boots" get married. Cora is the logical one
Dear Sir -
Please don't let "Boots" or Cora get married - They are too young to get
Mr Martin
I don't like the idea of Cora marrying the Professor - what's the matter with Billy? - I think it would be much nicer if Cora married him
Yours Sincerely
M. K.
Why have Cora marry anyone? Boots is one. She ought to marry Ferdy
IT WOULD BE GREAT IF I COULD PLEASE EVERYONE —— WHAT TO DO!!

Britain's Sovereigns Prefer Modern Drama To Psycological Plays

King and Queen Like Well Constructed Plots and Mystery

Theatrical managers who have made a study of the playgoing of the King and Queen say it is clear they both like straightforward, well-constructed drama with action in it rather than psychological and problem plays.

Both the King and Queen have been to see Sir Gerald Du Maurieir in "Interference." In fact, they almost always go to the plays at St James theatre, where the acting and production are under the direction of Sir Gérald Du Marier and the cast is always capable.

Like Comedy

Eden Phillpotts' plays are popular with the royal family. "The Farmer's Wife" pleased the King and Queen so much that they went twice to see the amusing comedy of Devonshire. Many members of the royal family also went more than once to see "Rose Marie" during its long run.

Mystery plays, if they are well acted, appeal to King George. "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," and Edgar Wallace's, "The Ringer," were both seen by the King.

Is Discriminating

On the whole King George's preferences do not seem to be essentially different to those of his more discriminating subjects. The plays he has enjoyed in the last twelve months were chiefly those which had long and profitable runs, and all of them were free from smut and suggestiveness. The average musical comedy makes little appeal to the King, and he does not share in the enthusiasm of some of the younger members of his family for motion pictures.

CHEERY ROOM

A cheery morning room can often be achieved by the addition of canary or primrose yellow curtains, with flowers in pots along the window sills.

Household Hints

SUMMER STAINS

Stains made from rust, grass or by spilling food should be removed immediately. Efficacious cleansers on the market make this easy.

FRUIT STAINS

To remove fruit stains from table linen, stretch the stained part over a bowl and pour boiling water through from a height of ten inches.

PANAMA REVIVAL

Always suggestive of pleasant summer days, the panama hat is in vogue again, but this season deftly manipulates the crown into tucks and creases.

SLANTING ORNAMENTS

Bows and buckles have their own slant on Fashion this summer. At greater the angle either is put on, the more chic accrues.

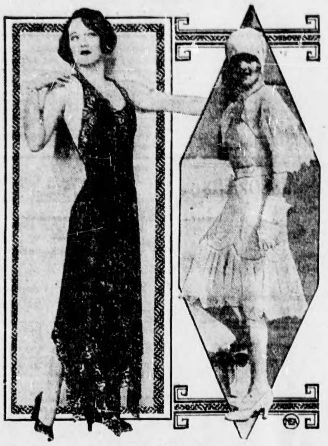
A Matter of Preference



In Hollywood, blondes interpret the black-white mode by a preference for white, brunets by a preference for black. Claire Windsor's fair daintiness is here enhanced by a cowboy white lace frock with novel accessories, while Joan Crawford's intriguing beauty is emphasized by a stunning evening gown, its sophistication achieved by an unusual decollete and an almost total absence of back.

Beauty Flapper Problems

Dear Miss Leeds—Please tell me the correct answers to the following questions, even if you do not approve of what I want to do. I have written before to different beauty editors but they have ignored my letters, so I am coming to you as a last resort. (1) How can I pierce my ears and tattoo pretty designs on my legs? I read in a newspaper that those fashions were to be in style. (2) Do you advise shaving one's eyebrows? I have been plucking mine, but they grow in again. (3) Is shaving better than the use of a depilatory for under-arm hairs? (4) Do you advise accenting the bust line by wearing the cup-shaped brassieres? (5) Should legs be shaved? (6) Do you think I wear enough clothes? I wear pumps, rolled stockings below my knees, my dress an inch or so above my knees, short bloomers and the bust support. (7) Is there any way to attain a permanent blush and rosy lips?

LOUISE.

Answer—(1) Do not believe all style reports you see in the newspapers, my dear. Pierced ears went out of style before you were born and tatooed limbs have not been considered in good taste since our race emerged from savagery. The modern way to use earrings is to have them screwed on without puncturing the lobes. Even when piercing the ears was in vogue peopleple did not try to do it themselves. A friend of mine tells me how, away back in the 1880's, she had her ears pierced, and fainted under the operation. A cock was held under the lobe and a needle driven through the flesh. Tattooing is done by pricking designs in the skin with a needle or other sharp instrument, and then rubbing the coloring matter in. India ink is used to give a blue tint. Even among savages tattooing is a highly specialized profession, and in the Orient there are many skillful practitioners of this art. It is, of course, a painful process for the victim, and there is danger of infection. (2) Plucking is better. (3) In my opinion, a depilatory is better for under-arm hairs. (4) No. (5) Depilatory or bleaching is better. (6) Your clothes would reflect better taste if your skirts were longer. If you wore a slip under your dress, and if your stockings covered your knees. (7) A blush that was permanent would not be a real blush. The charm of a blush lies in the way it comes and goes, reflecting a sensitive nature. Good health will give you rosy cheeks and red lips.

Care of a Blotchy Skin

Dear Miss Leeds—I have a dry skin that becomes blotchy when I go outdoors. I am 43 years old and weigh 126 pounds. I have never used anything on my face, but would like to improve its appearance.

K. M. H.

Answer—It is time for you to begin systematic beauty treatments to prevent your skin from becoming wrinkled. Use cold cream to cleanse your face at bedtime and also as a powder base. One's complexion needs to be protected from wind and weather by a thin film of cream and powder. This is especially true of a dry skin. Once a week give yourself a facial pack. You will find the correct treatments described in detail in my leaflets on "Care of Dry Complexions," "Milady's Beauty Program" and "Complexion Ills." The latter gives suggestions for blotchy skins. I shall be glad to send these leaflets to you if you will write again, inclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope. Build up your health and do not neglect outdoor exercise, like walking every day.

DOROTHY DIX

A woman correspondenut asks: "How lonk a vacation should a wife take in the summer?"

Long enough for her husband to miss her, and not long enough for him to find out that he can do without her.

Or to put it a little more specifically: Long enough for the house to get all cluttered up, and all the dishes in the sink and all the towels soioled and all of his shirts and collars lost, but not long enough for him to learn how to cook bacon without scorching it, and to remember to send out the laundry. Long enough for him to get lonesome, but not long enough for him to find companionship.

I am strong for the wife taking a vacation every now and then. It's a life, and will do more than any other one thing saving station for both husband and wife, to promote domestic peace and harmony, and prevent divorce. complacent wives who believe that their And in spite of all that is said by the husbands never draw a happy breath when and wives taking their vacations separate- away from them, I am strong for husbands ly, except under extraordinary circumstances.

For a vacation should be a vacation, and it isn't a vacation if it does not give us change, and if we have tcape.ia it looking at the same old people and putting up with the same old ways and threshing over the same old subjects that we do all the remainder of the year.

One reason why husbands and wives should take their vacations separately is because no matter how much they love each other, they get fed up on each other's society. In eleven months of the year they tell each other everything they know and think and think they think. They literally talk out, and that's why the domestic atmosphere in most homes is so thick with silence that you could cut it with a knife.

But let either one go off alone and upon his or her return he or she chatters his or her head off to an interested audience. He or she is full of new stories, ne wexperiences, new adventurs and th whol family circle is jazzed up.

Another argument for husbands and wives taking their vacations separately is that very few men and women want to do the same thing. This is perfectly natural and logical. The man who has spent his year in the turmoil of business wants to get out to some remote place in the wilderness wkhere he won't see other people, where he can wear his oldest clothes and go without shaving, and fish or hunt.

But the woman whose year has been spent mostly within the four walls of her home yearns for the bright lights of a big hotel where there is something doing every minute, where she can see crowds, and change her clothes four times a day.

Of course, the woman may sacrifice herself and drag off to the woods and spend a miserable time with the mosquitoes and the red bugs, or the man may martyrize himself by going to a resort hotel with his wife. But in either case the victim is peevish and fault-finding, and spoils the pleasure of the other one, as well as being personally miserable.

So why not use a little common sense in deciding the vacation, and each do what he or she likes, and leave the party of the other part to do the same?

Personally, I don't believe that there is any couple, however congenial they are, however much married, who don't get a kick out of slipping the halter every now and then and getting a breath of free dom.

Mrs. John may adore Mr. John, but all the same she gets a thrill at going off on her own and feeling that she can do exactly as she pleases, and that there isn't anybody whose pleasure or comfort she has to think of before she does her own. hy, it's perfectly exciting to be able to order the things you personally like to eat, instead of the things your husband prefers and that con can eat if you have to.

Mr. John may worship Mrs. John, but—when he turns away from the train where he has kissed Mrs. John good-by he straightens his shoulders and cocks his hat at a knowing angle, and looks about ten years younger as the blissful consciousness sweeps over him that he doesn't have to punch the home time clock, nor furnish an alibi for every hour of the day, nor be reminded of the million things he should leave undone.

And, oh, boy! Oh, dearie! The miracle that absence works! When they parted Mrs. John saw Mr. John as merely a commonplace, hump-shouldered, bay-windowed man who was getting a little bald on the dome, and who had a thousand irritating peculiarities, but she hasn't gotten fifty miles from home before she begins to recall how good and kind he is, and what a nice nose he has, and by the end of a month he is once more the hero of her girlish dreams.

And Mr. John beheld in Mrs. John at the moment of farewell merely a middle-aged woman who was getting fat and whose nagging frequently got upon his nerves. But barely has she faded from his physical vision before he begins to see her in his mind's eye as his guardian angel, and when he welcomes her back his kiss has in it the thrill of the lover instead of being the peck of duty that he gave her when she went away.

So far, so good. Up to a certain point a separate vacation is all to the good, and it's a humane and efficacious and wise thing for every wife to absent herself from her husband's side for a certain space of time every year. But it is a fatal thing for her to overplay her cue. For when the cat's away the mice will play, and more husbands go astray in the three months of the summer than during the entire remainder of the year.

Why the summer season should be the time of lax morals, nobody knows. It merely is.

We do things in August that we wouldn't dream of doing in December. Virtue melts down in the dog days like the starch in a stiff collar, and we go negligee in clothes and conduct. Moreover, it is the playtime, when we all feel we have the right to do a little picnicking and have a few joy rides on the side.

Wives should remember this, and that when they go out of the town for the summer they leave plenty of pretty girls behind them who are hunting for lonesome married men with automobiles and free spending money.

And let no wife befool herself into thinking that her husband is going straight home of an evening fro mhis office to a hot, stuffy, shut-up house and spend his time writing her a letter telling her how he misses her. He may do it for one week or two weeks, but not for three months.

Wherefore the wise wife takes her vacation and freshens herself up mentally and physically, but she makes it snappy an dshe doesn't stay away long enough for her husband to find another playmate.

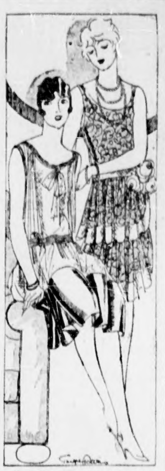
From Queen Fashion's Court



From Queen Fashion's Court

PARIS, July 2—Never was there such a season for tulle and lace. The latter abounds for afternoon and evening wear and the former takes on all sorts of characteristics for soiree time.

Lots of young girls are wearing full-skirted picture frocks in pastel colorings. Often they start about the corsage with some very pale tint and deepen frill by frill until the ample hem is reached. These shaded affairs are extremely lovely. One worn lately by a beautiful dark girl started by being the color of her skin so that it seemed to merge actually from her throat and shoulders. The tulle deepened into yellow about the waistline from where, frill by frill, it took stronger yellows until an orange flame edge was reached.

Some of the older women—and age is no bar to the picture frock it seems—choose black tulle, which is making lovely effects these days.

Chantal, a dressmaker with one of the most refined and delicate of touches, does exquisite things with tulle. For dresses she very often gives it a background of metal tissue so that its film-like airiness is fully appreciated. Take the nearer frock for instance, which she makes in gold tulle. Against a gold foundation—all the while glinting through—it is particularly subtle and effective. The tulle sewn over fine cord finishes the throat, sleeves and waistline. There is a tiny sleeveless jacket of pleated gold tulle which can be worn or not as liked.

Absolutely opposite in type is the deep hem of yellow velvet which finishes this frock. It is quite a whim of the moment to combine these absolutely different materials and certainly one enhances the other.

A silver lame foundation is chosen for the lace frock. The patterned mesh is in navy. It is edged by bands or royal blue tulle. Pink and red roses decorate the waist.

Nearly 20,000 Crowd Golf Links For Children's Picnic

350 GALLONS OF ICE CREAM GIVEN AWAY

Elks and Scouts Win Praise for Splendid Handling of The Crowd

Jamming their way into Victoria park grounds and making the greatest crowd of its kind ever seen in the city, Edmonton children estimated at between 18,000 and 20,000 enjoyed themselves to the limit Thursday afternoon when they were the guests of the local Elks' club, the Edmonton Public School board and the Separate School board.

Ice cream—nearly 350 gallons of it—and untold amounts of orange drink, were handed out to the milling children by sweating and laboring Elks behind four booths, separated about the field, and ended their labors at about 6 p.m. with their supplies gone and nothing but thousands of paper cups strewn on the ground and dozens of empty ice cream containers lying about.

10,000 Spectators

With a platform erected on the flat course just in front of No. 1 tee on the golf course, the great natural amphitheatre was crowded, nearly 10,000 children and parents sitting on the hill in front of the stand to watch the various platform attractions, including a jubilee pageant presented by the pupils of McCauley school under the direction of E. L. Humphries, principal.

Platform attractions included drills and dance numbers by the pupils of various schools, who entered into the spirit of the occasion in a manner which surprised everyone. A "three-ring circus" to handle the overflow crowds was arranged on the greens behind the grand stand in which children danced and sang, conducted drills and provided real entertainment.

Lost children totalling about 200, were rounded up by Boy Scouts during the day, the majority of the children being little tots under six years old who lost their mothers in the great jam. A special enclosure was erected and Boy Scouts and Girl Guides had a busy day entertaining tearful-eyed boys and girls until frantic mothers finally located them. More than once Boy Scouts lifted a crying child from the ground and carried him to the enclosure where his names and address was taken, if the child was able to give it, and patient wait started until their mother claimed him.

Scouts Earn Praise

City police are loud in their praises for the Scouts who did wonderful work throughout the day. Nearly half a hunderd of them patrolled the river bank, nearly a quarter of a mile distant, and showed erring boys and girls back to the centre of the crowd.

More than 80 lost children were in the enclosure at one time, and the last was sent home shortly before 8 o'clock, after the Elks, who understand that a full stomach helps a lot, had provided them with nourishment.

The safety of the children was under the personal direction of Inspector Dan Fraser, of the Edmonton police force, who had a special crew of men in the crowds to protect them from the jams, while Boy Scouts and Elks attempted to keep the children from crushing into the Elks' refreshments stands, where they clamored for ice cream and drinks. Every child got his share, and one small boy, up for another drink, proudly told his nearest neighbors that it was his fourteenth, but he wasn't sunk yet.

To be Annual Affair

Lorne Mellish was chairman of the committee arranging entertainment for the children and he had a heavy crew working with him.

The pageant by the McCauley school was an inspiring sight, the children entering into the spirit of the occasion and giving a great performance.

Superintendent McKee, of the Edmonton Public school system, was the originator of the plan for the picnic, according to Elmer Roper, board chairman, and it is planned to hold the event each year.

"I certainly appreciate the work of the Elks," Mr. Roper states. "They provided the best entertainment the children of this city has ever had, and I believe that the picnic was the first event ever held in the city solely for children. They had a wonderful time."

Insurance Makes the Estate Independent

THE COMMERCIAL LIFE ASSURANCE CO. of CANADA
HEAD OFFICE, EDMONTON
Sound as the Dominion

After death business enterprises generally have to be closed and partnership interests adjusted. An adequate amount of insurance will make the estate independent, and may save other good property from needless sacrifice. A good policy with The Commercial Life may become "the friend indeed in the time of need."

A. E Samuel Elected Musical Festival Head

A. E. Samuel was elected president of the local branch of the Alberta Musical Festival Association for the next year at the annual meeting held at Herbert Wild's studio, Alberta College North on Saturday.

Vernon W. Barford was elected vice-president; Charles Ed. K. Cox, treasurer and Mrs. David Bowman, secretary. Delegates appointed to the provincial executive were Mrs. Bowman, Vernon Barford and H. G. Turner, with W. J. Hendra as supernumary.

Considerable progress was reported toward arrangements for the Beethoven centenary concert to be held under the auspices of the association in October.

JASPER TRAIL UP NEXT FOR A.M.A. EFFORTS

Towns between the Saskatchewan border and the boundaries of the Jasper National Park probably will be united during the next few months in a campaign to urge the completion of the Jasper Highway from Edmonton to the park in 1928.

This much is indicated in the attitude of boards of trade and organized motorists in the various towns in the northern part of the province, with the Edmonton section of the Alberta motor Association the spearhead in the proposed movement. In this campaign the active support of the A.M.A., with members in all parts of the province, will be thrown in behind the representations to be made to the Alberta Government.

South Road Good

During the last three years officials of the automobile club have concentrated efforts toward the completion of the gravelled highway between the Montana border and Edmonton. This highway will be practically all gravelled before the close of Government operations this season. This gives assurance that 1928 will see a veritable army of tourists and land-seekers turned into Alberta from the United States, who have been diverted heretofore from this province by routing agencies across the line owing to the uncertain state of the dirt roads leading in from Montana.

"With great numbers of tourists rolling north to Edmonton over the new-all-weather motorway it is obvious to officials of the A.M.A. that the scenic wonders of Jasper National Park should be made available for these visitors without delay. Hence the Government will be pressed to plan for the opening of the highway west of Edmonton to the boundaries of the Jasper Park at the earliest possible date next spring. The Dominion Government already have an excellent road completed to the Eastern boundaries of the park from the town of Jasper.

Paul Calder, Stunt Aviator, Edmonton Boy

Those who saw the Canadian Air Force aeroplane flying over the city Friday, nose diving, looping the loop and performing various other prodigies, marvelled at the skill and daring of the pilot. Few knew he was an Edmonton born and bred boy.

His name is Paul Calder. He was born on the South Side and is considered a very valuable member of the service.

While "doing his stuff" over the South Side athletic grounds and Victoria park during the afternoon, Lieut. Calder was accompanied by K. A. Blatchford, M.P., whose penchent for flying is well known, having flown to Chicago a few years ago and being primarily instrumental in the establishment of a local flying field, appropriately called "Blatchford Field" in his honor.

Newsboys' Band To Give Concert

Under the direction of Frank G. Aldridge, the re-organized Newsboys' band will give its first concert at Borden park from 3 to 5 p.m., Sunday. On this occasion the band will stand by itself, without any assistance from the old boys.

A first-rate program has been arranged and will include the "Confederation March," composed and arranged by Mr. Aldridge.

Charles Roberts Heads Canadian Authors' Ass'n.

OTTAWA, July 2.—Charles G. D. Roberts, Toronto, was elected president of the Canadian Authors' Association at the concluding session of the annual convention Thursday. M. O. Hammond, Toronto, was elected secretary and the councillors include Miss Mazo De La Roche, Toronto; Mrs. Isabel E. McKay, Vancouver; Mrs. Nellie McClung, Calgary, and Mrs. E. Bailey Price, Calgary.

PROVINCES AND DOMINION ARE CONGRATULATED

Premier Brownlee Wires Alberta's Felecitations Throughout Canada

Premier Brownlee, of Alberta, telegraphed congratulations on Canada's celebration of her sixtieth jubilee to the federal members of the premiers of all the provinces.

The messages follow:

Hon. John Oliver,
Victoria, Premier of B.C.

Alberta sends greetings to her western neighbor. The mountain barriers have been overcome and our mutual material interests call for continued co-operation. The development of your harbors means an outlet for our grain, while we can absorb your fruit products and imported merchandise.

(Sgd) J. E. BROWNLEE.

Hon. Jas. G. Gardiner,
Regina, Premier of Sask.

Alberta sends greetings and best wishes to her twin sister province. Your wide and fretile wheat areas command the admiration of all Canada, and the next sixty years will unfold a marvelous story of settlement and the growth of provincial wealth.

We congratulate you upon what you have accomplished in the past twenty years and upon your bright prospects for the future.

(Sgd) J. E. BROWNLEE.

Hon. John Bracken,
Winnipeg, Premier of Man.

Alberta sends greetings to Manitoba, the first of the prairie provinces to enter Confederation. Your province was the gateway through which the west was settled, and we owe much of our success to your assistance and your faith in our development.

We congratulate you on your historic associations; your well settled rural districts and your splendid city, the centre of railway, trade, and financial institutions.

(Sgd) J. E. BROWNLEE.

Hon. Jas. D. Stewart,
Charlottetown, Premier of P.E.I.

Alberta sends greetings to the garden province where the idea of Confederation first took practical shape.

Accept our hearty congratulations on the high state of cultivation of your land, your comfortable homes, and the success of your trade in products of the sea.

(Sgd) J. E. BROWNLEE.

Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King,
Ottawa, Premier of Canada.

Alberta begs to express to the premier of Canada her most respectful and sincere good wishes on the occasion of the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation. With her democratic institutions, with an area ten times that of Confederation, with forest resources, wheat production and water power development second among the nations; with the large percentages of the world's output of minerals, taken from her mines; with agriculture and manufacturers in close rivalry for first place in value of production; with her furs and fisheries and stores of uncovered wealth, Canada is well equipped to hold her position as a nation, and as an integral part of the Empire.

(Sgd) J. E. BROWNLEE.

Hon. G. H. Ferguson,
Toronto, Premier of Ontario.

Alberta sends cordial greetings to the banner province. Accept our congratulations on your good roads, minerals and electrical development and general prosperity.

(Sgd) J. E. BROWNLEE.

Hon. L. A. Taschereau,
Premier of Quebec.

Alberta sends friendly greetings to historic Quebec, the birthplace of Confederation. Your province has given Canada Tache, Cartier, D'Arcy, McGee, Laurier and many others whose achievements we honor on this occasion.

We congratulate you on your progress during the past sixty years.

Your development of water powers and the consequent increase of manufacturers have brought you provincial prosperity of which all Canada may be proud.

(Sgd.) J. E. BROWNLEE.

Hon. John B. M. Baxter,
St. John, Premier of N.B.

Alberta sends greetings to New Brunswick. We congratulate you upon the variety of your agricultural and fishing products, and your valuable lumber and other manufacturing interests.

(Sgd.) J. E. BROWNLEE.

Hon. Edgar Nelson Rhodes,
Halifax, Premier of N.S.

Alberta sends greetings to Nova Scotia. Though a long distance separates us, we have learned to regard you as a valuable member of the Dominion. We congratulate you on your apple production, your fisheries development and the sturdy character of your loyal sons, of loyal forefathers.

(Sgd.) J. E. BROWNLEE.

Premier King Replies

OTTAWA, July 1.—Cordial greetings of the Dominion government to the nine provinces who entered Confederation were conveyed in telegrams dispatched to the various provincial premiers by Premier W. L. Mackenzie King last night.

The prime minister's message was as follows:

"May I convey to you and through you to the government and citizens of your province the cordial greetings of my colleagues and myself on the occasion of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation. May our celebrations at this time greatly strengthen the bonds of unity and goodwill throughout our Dominion and the community of nations that owe allegiance to His Majesty the King."

Nanking Government Coming Into Its Own

SHANGHAI, July 2—Commander H. G. Stephens of the British light cruiser Dragon at Nanking has made a call on Gen. Chiang ai-Shek, military leader of the moderate Nationalist government at Nanking. Commander Stephens' call, coupled with the return of the Japanese counsul to Nanking Thursday, has caused feeling here that Great Britain and Japan are moving toward the establishment of official relations with the Nanking government and possibly recognition.

not be readily forgotten. The lads moved along the street in wide formation, occupying the entire width of the street, and with their natty new uniforms created a profound impression, while their playing drew forth many enconiums.

Prize Winning Floats

The prize-winning floats also were the subject of the greatest interest. First prize for the winner of the historical and symbolical section went to L'Canadien Association and St. Albert, for a series of five floats of early scenes of Canadian history and local events, featuring the arrival at St. Albert of Father Lacombe. Second prize went to the historical display of the Hudson's Bay Company, as impressive a spectacle as has ever been seen hereabouts.

P. Burns and Company carried off first prize for the commercial display while the Federation of Community Leagues scored first with the best display by a society or organization, with the Ukrainian Society coming second.

After the parade's arrival at the legislative buildings the assemblage flocked down 107th street. The wide thoroughfare was one seething mass and each and every person was anxious to obtain a comfortable spot from which to hear the speeches and the broadcasting of the Ottawa ceremonies. Every available inch of space on the beautiful government lawns was occupied.

Lieut. Governor Presides

His Honor Lieut. Gov. Dr. William Egbert, in full uniform, acted as chairman and made the introductory speech. He was followed by Hon. John Farquhar Lymburn, attorney general, who spoke on behalf of the province and then by His Worship Mayor A. U. G. Bury, representing the city. On the platform was a distinguished galaxy of dignitaries representing government, city, church, army and navy. All speakers emphasized the importance of the celebration and the glorious achievements of the fathers of confederation and the great work which lay before Canadians of today.

A royal salute of 21 rounds of gun fire was given by the 61st battery, Canadian Field Artillery, under the command of Major Nelles V. Buchanan, M.C., after which came the broadcasting of the Ottawa profram.

His Excellency Viscount Willingdon, governor general, read a message from His Majesty the King and then spoke as governor general both in English and French. Premier W. L. Mackenzie King, Sir Lomer Gouin, Margaret ngiln, Eva Gauthier and others contributed to the program. A massed choir of 10,000 school children and 1,000 adult singers accompanied by the band of the Governor General's FootGuards provided a series of patriotic songs. The announcer reported perfect weather and a crowd of 50,000 people on Parliament Hill. This program continued until about 2 p.m. local time and for about one-half hour thereafter the carillon bells were heard.

Afternoon Events

The South Side athletic grounds proved the main attraction during the afternoon when a length and colorful list of sports events caught the fancy and held the attention of the multitude.

In the evening the scene switched back to the north side with Victoria Park the center of interest. With a large platform erected immediately at the bottom of 113 street and with the natural, gracefully sloping bank upon which thousands could recline with comfort and ease, a fitting historical pageant was presented by pupils of McCauley public school. The dramatization and spoken parts were by H. Leonard Humphreys and the costumes and stage management were by the teaching staff of the school. In word and picture the birth, growth and development of Canada was impressively depicted. Dances by the Ukrainian ballet songs by the Ukrainian choir and musical numbers by a colored choir followed and this portion of the program was concluded by a brilliant display by the Evelyn Parks School of Ballet.

Fireworks Display

The crowds, which had commenced a converging movement on Victoria Park as early as 7 p.m., kept growing every minute. All paths leading down the hillside were jammed with pedestrians, while all roads were congested with motor vehicles. By the time the McCauley school pageant was over the bank was one mass of humanity for a great distance on all sides of the platform. The band of the 49th Batt. played martial and patriotic airs as the light faded and while the gigantic fireworks display was prepared.

Sharp at 10.30 the first flare was lit. Masses of colored lights were disseminated in all directions. The starlit sky became almost as bright as though the sun was out. Multi-colored rockets and roman candles burst this way and that and suffused "ah's" and "oh's" were heard on all sides. The brilliantly illuminated street car passed over the high level bridge and caused a bedlam of rhetoric to ensue. Frank Field, of the city electric light department, designed the decorations, and in co-operation with the city architect, its building.

50,000 See Display

It is estimated that 50,000 people "sat in" on the fireworks display. The south river bank was massed, the high level bridge almost groaned under the weight of humanity and motor vehicles, the government grounds presented a solid formation of humans, while 109, 110, 111, 112, 113, 114 street, the north bank of the river and Victoria avenue from 116 to 121 street, were packed. The gathering for this display, it is said, even outdistanced that of the morning and by the time the huge bonfire with which the day's celebrations were concluded, was lit, many returning picnickers had gathered, considerably augmenting the numbers.

The bonfire was a hugh success. James Douglas Montizambert, three-year-old son of Inspector Montizambert, R.C.M.P., the local lad who traced the oldest lineage of Canadian forefathers, was honored by igniting the blaze. Instantly a high column of fire burst forth, illuminating the sky for miles around.

Unqualified Success

The woodsmen had done their work well. The giant logs, dried by peerless Alberta sunshine and caressing breezes, crackled and sizzled in the cool night air. The sight will never be forgotten. The vast gathering was lit up as if by arc lights and Edmontonians in their thousands stayed until the half dozen empty barrels, perched on the summit of the pyre, gave a great outburst of flame to herald the passing of the first day's celebration of the jubilee.

The day as a whole was an unqualified success. The weather man was in a magnanimous mood as he apparently was across the Dominion and nothing marred the events of the day.

Festivities Continued

Today, celebrations will be continued. In the afternoon commencing at 2 o'clock the Old-Timers' association will hold a reception at the Rogat, at the Exhibition grounds, and the bust erected by the association in honor of Hon. Frank Oliver, will be unveiled by Mrs. Leslie Wood, one of Edmonton's oldest timers. Dr. D. G. McQueen will act as chairman and addresses will be given by K. A. Blatchford, M.P., John Blue and others.

An all-star baseball match and an intercity-city, Edmonton-Calgary lacrosse match, will be played in front of the grand stand. The special aeroplane squadron from High River, which did stunts over Friday's festivities, is expected to perform more prodigies during the day.

AIRMEN ESCAPE

Paris before having at least one good night's sleep.

The successful landing here—successful in that the crew miraculously escaped serious injury—brought an end to long hours of circling over France in the blackness of a rainy night with compass out of order, fuel tanks draining fast and visibility so poor that any attempt to land was almost suicidal.

Plane Not Blamed

The America, which was meant to land at Le Bourget field, Paris, and then go back to the United States in the first round trip flight between New York and the French capital, did her part nobly and so did the men who steered her through the long hours of fog, rain and darkness. It was the failure of their compass to do its part after the French coast had been reached, at Cape Finisterre, that made it impossible for them to locate their goal and caused them to wander about until only a few ballons of fuel sloshed in the great tanks.

There was no chance for them to set a course and keep it, nor opportunity in the circumstances to know where they were. A dismal blinding rain beat down upon them and they could see no land, no lights—nothing but a sky of inky black.

Except for the mechanical accident of the compass ceasing to function, Commander Byrd has no doubt but that he would have achieved his goal before midnight Thursday night. The motors functioned perfectly during the whole trip—through fog, rain and wind, over land and sea.

The airmen were 19 hours in crossing the Atlantic, but not once did they catch a glimpse of the water, so dense was the fog through which they flew; nor could they during those hours see the sky or anything xcept their plane, and sometimes the mist was so thick that their eyes could pierce it no farther than the ends of the wing.

A correspondent for the Associated Press who flew here from Paris as soon as news of the landing became known asked Commander Byrd whether he was satisfied from his experience that commercial trans-Atlantic aviation was feasible.

Will Come Slowly

"It is possible," the commander replied. "It will surely come, but it will come slowly, for it is all a matter of evolution.

"I haven't any doubt that we would have reached Paris had it not been for the behavior of the compass, due to some local affection. Perhaps it was something in the plane with magnetic qualities that threw the needle off."

The North Pole hero was dead tired from his three seepless nights. He accepted the congratulations showered upon him in modest fashion.

When he was first congratulated by the correspondent he said: "You congratulate me, but I feel that maybe I need kicking more than congratulations."

The other fliers kept up their good humor. The interest of all four seemed to centre in what could be done to save the magnificent aeroplane that had brought them across the Atlantic.

Clothing Ruined

All their clothing and everything else they had with them was drenched and most of it ruined. They had to borrow clothes in which to attend a ceremony in their honor, staged in the village's little hall, usually reserved for fetes.

The weather was atrocious all day, rain pouring from a cold gray sky. It was weather to make a disappointed man feel even bluer than he might otherwise.

One of Commander Byrd's bitterest disappointments is that he lost much of his scientific data in the sudden flooding of the plane. The aviators succeeded in saving some of their precious records, however.

FLIERS' STORY OF TRIP OVER BEFOGGED SEA

VER-SUR-MER, France, July 2—Here is Commander Byrd's story of his trans-Atlantic flight as he related it to J. E. Angly, staff correspondent of the Associated Press.

"We had fairly good weather during the first part of the light off the American coast and kept up speed even at the start, when our load was extremely heavy.

"From the time we sighted Newfoundland until we had nearly reached Europe, we saw no land or sea, the America being always in a fog which at times was so thick we could barely see as far as the tips of the wings.

Made Good Speed

"We had 19 hours of high, dense fogs and clouds. After 19 hours of that we managed by very good luck to locate ourselves and reached the French coast at Finisterre. I don't know exactly what time it was, for I've lost my charts and most of my records, but it was before sundown anad we had made very good speed.

"At Finisterre we set our course for Paris. Not long after we left Finisterre darkness fell. Naturally we then followed the compass course having used it satisfactorily for a thousand miles.

"To our astonishment and amusement we came to a park near the sea instead of Paris. Something had taken the compass off many degrees and in the fog and rain we had gone in a circle. Something must have affected the compasses for they worked most satisfactorily. We were now in the predicament of flying around on a very dark, rainy, foggy night, not knowing where we were going.

Low Clouds and Rain

"We set another course for Paris, but the effort was ended by low clouds and rain. We may have been near Paris. We searched for the city for hours. If it had been clear there would have been nothing to it, we should have seen the lights.

"For hours we searched for a landing place and watched carefully our gasoline consumption.

"Then we decided to land in the water. We saw a revolving light, and knew there was a beach, but the light was weak. e dropped a navigation flare but it gave little light. We circled arodnu. It is hard enough to land in the water during the day time, but we had to land at night and could not see at all.

Sudden Jolt

"There was a sudden jolt and the water filled everything immediately. Of course the boys thought only of getting to each other.

"None of us could hear after the lonog hours of the engine roaring. We were quite appalled when we could not hear the answers to our calls. I yelled and Acosta did not hear me at all, nor Balchen.

"There was nothing worse than bruises and shocks, however.

"We got out our little boat after quickly clearing out the cabin. We had some trouble pumping up the rubber boat, but rowed ashore all right."

SAPIRO WOULD FORCE PEOPLE TO JOIN POOL

SASKATOON, Sask., July 2—Proposing to the wheat pool members in Saskatchewan that they ask the Saskatchewan government for legislation whereby, with a two-thirds sign-up of farmers or of acreage in the province, all producers should be forced to sell their grain through the pool, Aaron Sapiro, of Chicago, expert on co-operative marketing and organizer of the pool, addressed some 4,000 persons at the annual United Farmers' of Canada picnic at Harris, Thursday afternoon.

Cites Other Places

Mr. Sapiro declared that somewhat similar legislation was in effect already in South Africa, one of the Australian states, and in British Columbia, governing the marketing of certain commodities and giving the voluntary co-operators control of the entire production in the event of their securing a heavy majority of the producers voluntarily within their co-operative.

Saturday afternoon Mr. Sapiro will speak at a picnic at Manitou Lake, Wotrous; on Monday at Assiniboia; Tuesday, at Broadview; Wednesday, at Scott; and Thursday, at Melfort, thence returning to the United States.

FEW ACCIDENTS ARE REPORTED OVER HOLIDAY

Crowd One of the Most Orderly in History of City, Police Declare

Despite the fact that congestion in the downtown areas Friday constituted the greatest traffic jam which the city police have been called upon to meet, the day was particularly free from serious accidents and according to the authorities, the crowd was one of the most orderly in the city's history. The police blotter this morning was mute evidence of this, only two or three having run afoul of the law and for minor offenses. Such an occasion when thousands of citizens left their homes to view the celebration usually affords unlimited fields of operations for petty thieves, but Edmonton was particularly free from this anncyance the police declare.

Two persons were knocked down and slightly injured in the business district during the day while two more were taken to the Royal Alexandra hospital as a result of a crash in the East end.

Saskatoon Girl Injured

Helen Palmer, Saskatoon, was struck by a car operated by R. W. McIntyre, living four miles north of the city, at 101st street and 102nd avenue at 12.30 p.m. and taken to the University Hospital suffering from severe bruises.

George Doherty, 8108 112th avenue and Mrs. A. Moulder, Macdonald hotel, were taken to the Royal Alexandra hospital suffering from cuts sustained by flying windshield glass, when cars operated by Donald Ross, 9919 102nd avenue and Herman Fitzmuir, Macdonald hotel, crashed into an auto wreckage car at 82nd street and the Rat Creek bridge at 2.30 p.m.

Mrs. Moulder was released shortly after, while Mr. Doherty is progressing favorably.

LITA G. CHAPLIN COMES BACK AT ACTOR-HUSBAND

LOS ANGELES, July 2—Lita Grey Chaplin late Friday filed an answer in her divorce suit to the cross-complaint of her screen comedian husband, Charlie Chaplin, denying all his allegations. She declared Charlie's charges were without foundation in fact and based principally on hearsay.

The first specific charge of improper association of Chaplin with an unnamed woman, was mode in Mrs. Chaplin's answer.

The occasion, according to the actor's wife, was in July 1925 at about 10.30 in the evening in a bungalow owned by Chaplin on his Hollywood studio lot. Similar misconduct, she charges, had occurred at other times in the Chaplin Beverley Hills mansion and in other places in southern California.

Answering the more sensational charges of the film comedian's counter-complaint, Mrs. Chaplin denied that during her marriage she ever had been "infatuated with any man."

She denied that at any time had any man "for a considerable period occupied almost all of her time dancing in hotels, cafes, and beach resorts."

Police Gather Lost Clothing Of Picnickers

Did your boy come home without his hat or coat after enjoying himself at the Elks picnic Thursday? If he did it may be at the police station.

A huge pile of coats, hats, sweaters and other wearing apparel is waiting at the police station fo rtheir small owners. They were picked up by the police after the picnic.

Another Producer Added To Turner Valley Field

CALGARY, July 2 — Another producer was added to Turney Valley oilfield late Thursday night when Regent No. 1 well came in with a good quality of crude oil, the first estimate of the flow being approximately 20 barrels per day. The flow increased over Friday and tests will be made Saturday to detremine the commercial features of the product. The well is approximately 2,200 feet deep and the oil come in in the Dakota formation.

George Young's Motorcycle Will be Sold by U.S. Customs

LOS ANGELES, July 2.—The motorcycle on which George Young, youthful Canadian swimmer, started for California where he won acclaim and $25,000 by being the first swimmer to negotiat ethe channel between Santa Catalina island and the mainland, Friday was advertised to be sold August 5 by the customs department for duties unpaid when he entered the United States on a permit to remain for 90 days.

EXECUTE A WOMAN

LONDON, July 2—Three Chinese Communists, including a woman, have been executed in the city of Ningpo by the Nationalist general, Yang Hu, commander of the Shanghai area, says a Ningpo dispatch to Reuter's.

Bill Trimble has succeeded Frank Blondheim as manager of the used car department of Premier Motors, Limited.

One of the features of the Jubilee parade yesterday was the big Studebaker "President" with the orchestra comfortably seated on top. It was a striking demonstration of the sturdy build of all Studebakers. Motor Service Co., Ltd., local agents, supplied four cars for parade purposes. The Scottish Football team were also taken for a tour of the city last Monday in cars supplied by the same firm.

Auburn made a fine showing in the Jubilee parade, the big sedan and the eight-eighty-eight roadster being the cause of much comment.

The contrast between the early vintage Oldsmobile and the modern car of today seen in the parade yesterday brings home the striking advancement in the motor industry. And yet there are some croakers who tell you that the country is not making progress.

J. W. Martin, Willys-Overland sales representative, reports new agencies established at St. Paul De Metis, Strome, High Prairie and Benty. To date Alberta leads all Canada in the sales of Willys Knight and Overland cars for this year and the increasing demand threatens to break all records in the history of the company.

Geo. Pasha, Velle Factory Service Representative, was a visitor to the local agency this week.

There were big doings at Leduc Wednesday evening where Frank Blondheim and Charlie Boutland have started up under the name of Leduc Motor Sales Co. The occasion was the formal opening of their new garage which took the form of a general reception and dance. All the leading lights of the local motor row were on hand to take part in the festivities. Frank and Charlie have one of the finest garages and show rooms in the northern section of the province and are to be congratulated on their enterprize in launching what will do doubt prove to be a successful enterprise. They will handle Hupmobile and Star cars.

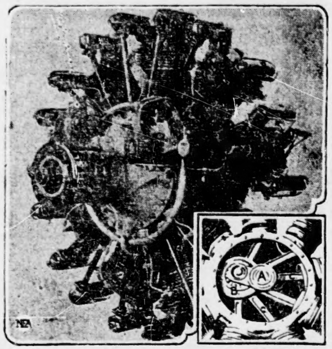
Bronzed Airmen Given Hearty Welcome, Hawaii

HONOLULU, June [illegible]—The pleasant penalties of herosm were fixed upon Lieutenants Lester J. Maitland and Albert Hegenberger today as all Hawaii saluted them for their swift, sure flight from the Golden Gate to Honolulu.

The two trim, wind-bronzed United States army aviators had spent the night in a private suite at the Waikiki beach hotel, in an endeavor to make up for the sleep they lost in their flight of 25 hours, 50 minutes from Oakland, at the end of which they had nonchalantly landed their six-ton Fokker at Wheeler Field, near here yesterday morning.

Women students in English universities number 9000 today. Fifty years ago there were only 71.

Lindbergh's Motor Is Revolution in Modern Airplane Design



This is the Wright Whirlwind motor which took Captain Lindbergh to Paris. Inset shows details of crankcase. A, the crankshaft; B, "mother bearing"; C, piston rod.

By ISRAEL KLEIN

The motor that speeded Captain Lindbergh and his airplane across the American continent and the Atlantic in three giant hops is the latest development in aviation.

Simple as it is, it has caused a revolution in airplane design. Its remarkable success in making a trip of more than 6500 miles, at a pace of 100 miles an hour and without a hitch, is bound to make a profound impression on future aviation.

The engine is what is called an air-cooled, radial motor. The one Lindbergh used was a Wright Whirlwind, made by the Wright Aeronautical Corporation, a pioneer in this type of engine design.

Two essential facts make this motor different from others. First, it is air cooled. Second, and more significant, its nine cylinders are ranged in a circle around a crankshaft with only one throw.

More Efficient Type

This arrangement makes the motor more compact, lighter and more efficient than the V-type engines formerly used in airplanes and similar to those now run in automobiles.

The whole engine weighs only 508 pounds, yet it can develop 250 horsepower, a remarkable achievement for such a small motor.

The crankshaft of this motor, unlike those of the V-type or "in-line" engines we know, has only one "throw," or crankpin, just like one of a single cylindered motor. It is therefore short and reaches directly out to the double-bladed propeller which is whirled about by the engine.

The single throw carries what is called a "mother bearing," which is made so that it can whirl about the crankshaft, once to each series of power strokes of the entire engine. Attached to the "mother bearing" are the piston rods, which lead to the pistons in the nine cylinders. Each rod is placed on a bearing of its own within the "mother bearing."

Cylinders Hit in Order

As a power stroke occurs in a cylinder, the piston pushes the "mother bearing" away from it. The next cylinder takes up this power and gives the "mother bearing" another push. And so the power explosions go on in order around the circle of cylinders, with the "mother bearing" pushed around as fast as the cylinders explode.

The whirling motion of the "mother bearing" on the crankpin turns the crankshaft and thus whirls the propeller at the front of the plane.

Each cylinder is exposed, with thin fins lining it so as to radiate its heat as fast as possible. That makes it unnecessary to cool the engine with water. Lack of water for cooling reduces the weight needed in the power plant of an airplane, including not only that of the water itself, but the radiator, water jackets and connections.

In addition, the parts of the engine are concentrated about a centre in so simple and compact an arrangement as further to reduce weight and aid in the lifting and carrying power of the engine.

How's She Hittin'? Hints On Car Care

BY ISRAEL KLEIN

Few drivers do it, yet it is important that the car be kept as clean under the hood as above it.

The reason is simple. Dust of the road collects easily on the engine and is held there by the oil that seeps out of the crevices and catches and particles that come in its way.

This grime eventually finds its way into the engine, and then the trouble starts.

• • •

The oil that lubricates the moving parts of a car has to be particularly clean. That is why we have oil filters and air cleaners to keep out the dust.

If particles of sand or bits of metal from the engine or chassis happen to get into the oil they scratch the finely polished surfaces of the parts and cause rapid wear.

The spaces between moving parts of a car is little wider than a hair's breadth. Only pure oil should get in to lubricate the parts and keep them running smoothly.

• • •

Engineers have watched the oil film bulding itself up between two moving parts, have noticed its comparative slowness in doing so, and have seen it break as soon as the movement stopped.

Before and after the film of oil gets into the hair-breadth space there is metal-to-metal contact which wears down the surfaces. That is why an engine shouldn't be raced on starting. There is more metal-to-metal contact, and the oil isn't given its chance to work itself in.

• • •

The new tourist from the flat lands has a unique thrill when he strikes the mountains.

The roads are steep, long and winding. They are narrow and treacherous. There's a cliff on one side, a declivity on the other and nothing ahead.

It's an experience for only the best of drivers to encounter with equanimity. The new driver must be ever cautious and well prepared for any emergency.

• • •

Oiling the car with the best oil suitable to it, and keeping the car well lubricated, therefore, are essentials of good and pleasurable motoring.

If there are oil and gas filters and an air cleaner on your car, see that they're cleaned out every once in a while, so they do not become clogged and ineffective.

Even with these, it is essential to renew the crankcase oil every 1,000 miles or so.

Get the facts on this chart clearly in your mind and the selection of the right car will become a very simple matter

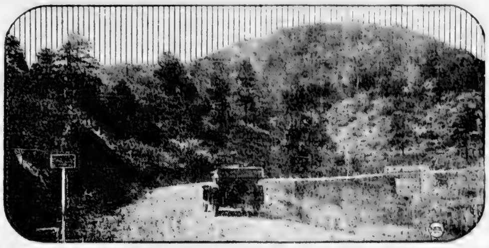
PARKS LINKED IN THIS LONG COLORFUL TOUR

Natures Collection of Wonders is Covered by 6,000-Mile Circuit Through Eleven States



This is only a smattering of the wonderful views awaiting tourists on the [illegible] Highway. Here we approach Denver from Colorado Springs, on the edge of the Colorado [illegible]

DENVER, July [illegible].—The cross-country highways are already beginning to lead tourists westward to nature's greatest round of wonders, the national park area in the west.

Here 6,000 miles of good highway form a circuit of twelve national parks, of numerous national monuments and Indian reservations across mountain pass and valley, over prairie and desert. The old days of pioneers, of Indian struggles and ancient civilization are lived again along the route that takes the traveller over eleven colorful states.

The start may be made at Denver which is reached from the east by the Pike's Peak Ocean-to-Ocean Highway, which is number 40 on the new federal highway system.

Southward to Colorado Springs we meet Pike's Peak, the famous spire of the Rockies, and go on to Pueblo and up the Arkansas river to the eastern gate of the Royal Gorge at Canon City.

Farther on the road winds southwest to Mesa Verde National Park, the first of the twelve great parks of the west, to be met by this route. This is the ancient land of the cliff dwellers, whose ruined homes may still be seen along the way.

Into Old Civilization

The road must be retraced to Durango on the Park-to-Park Highway, where it turns south through New Mexico into the colorful region of the Aztecs, the Navajos and the famous Spanish missions of long [illegible].

Entering Arizona we [illegible] petrified forest and continue west to Maine a little beyond [illegible] where the Grand Canyon Highway reaches northward to that world famous wonder mark.

From the Mesa Verde [illegible] travel is cool and [illegible] road is from [illegible]. After the wonders of the [illegible] the trek is down [illegible] desert valley of Arizona [illegible] the Colorado river to Needles.

A little west of here, another road branches northward to Zion National Park in Utah, another colorful section of this tour.

Through Death Valley

Back again on the Park-to-Park Highway, the ride is west over the Mojave desert and the notorious Death Valley, and into Los Angeles. Then [illegible] through the rich oil fields [illegible] enter a region of [illegible] parks [illegible] Yosemite. [illegible]

Second Payment Subscriptions

If you have worked out your territory thoroughly and do not know where to turn for subscriptions, why not call on the surrounding towns and see the farmers on the rural routes? Or, if you are not in a position to get out of your town or city why not try to get second payments from subscribers who have given you short terms? You can gain many votes this way.

For instance suppose Mr. A. gave you a mail subscription for six months near the start of the contest while the high schedule votes were in force. You received 14,000 votes for the first six months' subscription. Now if you can get Mr. A. to give you another six months which would make up a year to the Bulletin, you will receive enough additional votes for the second payment of six months to make up the votes allowed for a full year's subscription during the period when the first payment was made or 17,000 votes.

Or, suppose Mr. B. gave you one year's mail subscription between the dates of May 13 and June 11 you receive 30,000 votes if it was an old subscription. Now if he gives you another four years to make up the full five years you would receive the difference between 240,000 votes, which was given for a five year subscription at that time and the 30,000 votes you have already received or 210,000 votes. In figuring out the votes for the second payments compute them on the schedule in force when you turned in the first payment to the Contest Office.

NOTE: Subscriptions of this kind are to be marked "Second Payment" on the receipt stub which you send to the Contest Office. You must write on the back of the stub the date that you turned in the first payment and give the receipt number of the first payment, also the name of the candidate that collected the first payment. If this information is not given second payment votes will NOT BE GIVEN for the subscription, as it will be impossible for us to figure out the correct number of votes. Write the details as outlined above ON THE BACK OF THE RECEIPT FORM which you send to the Contest Office or you will only receive the regular number of votes for second payment subscriptions.

MICKEY WALKER K.O.'S MILLIGAN IN FAST BOUT

American Title-Holder Victor In Gruelling Fight Thursday

Canadian Press Cable

LONDON, July 2—Mickey Walker, Irish-American, successfully defended the middleweight championship of the world Thursday night by knocking out Tommy Milligan, of Scotland, in the tenth round of as fast a slugging match as Britishers have ever seen.

Walker, the first American to stake his world's championship in a London ring since Willie Ritchie lost the lightweight crown to Freddy Welsh in 1914, outclassed his Scotch rival. Milligan was floored five times before a right to the jaw sent him sprawling on the canvas, groggy and bleeding, for the last time in the tenth round. It was to have been a twenty-round encounter.

"Smiling Mickey" was carried from the ring [illegible] admirers but it was necessary to summon a physician to give prompt attention to Milligan, who was thoroughly whipped and suffered from several cuts about the face.

The Wallop Wins

It was a battle of speed against punch and the wallop won. Both apparently swung for a knockout at the start, but in the early rounds Milligan's greater speed enabled him to outpoint his opponent. Walker, in his usual [illegible] fashion [illegible] boring in [illegible] with both hands and [illegible] Milligan's resistance.

Bulls Scheduled To Meet Independents

The Bulls and Independents will clash in a scheduled Senior Amateur Baseball League game at Boyle street grounds tomorrow afternoon starting at 2:30.

The Bulls are topping the heap in the Senior loop while the Independents are tied for second place with the Cubs and a win will shoot them out ahead of the Bulls. Gladu, who turned in an impressive victory in the first game yesterday, will likely pitch tomorrow, while "Bud" McLear will probably be [illegible] pitching choice.

Frank Drayton will umpire.

WAS MOST SUCCESSFUL SPORTS DAY EVER HELD IN THIS CITY

N. W. Bruin Best of Harness Steeds — Running Races Were Very Good — Buster Brown Shows Way To Sprinters — Ethel Barnett Wins

By KEN McCONNELL

South Side Businessmen's big Dominion Day sports meeting went over with a bang yesterday at the South Side Athletic Park, fully 6,000 persons being in attendance. The good folk started coming at 1:30 o'clock, and they stayed right until the last—about 6 o'clock.

The grandstand was packed, the infield was the same, and around the fences boys and girls, with their mothers and fathers, were hanging on like flies. It was easily one of the greatest sports meetings ever held by the popular South Siders, and it was a huge success.

N. W. BRUIN COPS ALL THREE FAST HEATS

The big day's program started off with the first heat of the 2:35 class. N. W. Bruin proved to be the horse of four which started and when he won the first heat in 2:39 1-2 and he kept right on, winning the next two heats. Kitty Artus, Claddy B and Boxer C were the opposition for Bruin. Claddy B. got two seconds and a third, while Kitty Artus was placed third twice and fourth once. Boxer C. was second in the first heat and fourth in the remaining two. The times were 2:29 1-2; 2:29 1-2 and 2:31. North West Bruin is owned by R. H. Bugg of the Commercial Hotel, Strathcona.

The girls' 100-yard dash was next [illegible] Ethel Barnett was first after a thrilling race, Sara Jaffe, running the Edmonton girl a close race right to the tape. Jessie Innis was third. The time was 12 1-5. Those competing: Mary Lindquist, Gladys Ball, Augusta Bradbury, Marjorie Hogan, Babe Belanger and Betty Gillespie.

Buster Was Good

Buster Brown, Edmonton's premier sprinter, showed in the next event when he galloped away with the 100-yard senior dash. It was a handicap race, Buster starting from scratch and he won out after a spirited [illegible] with Joe Moreau, who was second. Hughie Miller was third. Dr. [illegible]ang, official timer, clocked the race in 10 seconds flat. Robert Wylie, and Alex Ainslee were also competing.

Buster Brown also galloped home a winner in the 220-yard senior dash [illegible] Stokes, Hughie Miller and Joe Moreau. The last mentioned competitor was second, Miller third and Stokes was in the rear. The time was 25 seconds.

In the junior standing broad jump Joe Moreau was first, getting 8' 9 3-4 inches to win out over Hughie Miller who made 8' 9" to take second place, while Joe Brown, who was third, made 7' 8 3-4 inches. Leo Lawrence, John Cunningham, William Heaton, Louis Haddow, Campbell Scott, Ivor Price and A. Ainslee were also in the event.

Dora Fore Best

Dora Fore proved to be the best of six pretty ponies entered in the 3-4-mile classic. There was plenty of entertainment in this race and also thrills. It was hard to start the ponies as there was no barrier and as a result thrills came thick and fast. Butterfly refused to have anything to do with her young rider and promptly got rid of him. The horse fell and so did the boy but fortunately neither was hurt. Butterfly was caught after a merry chase and the horses were all led to the barrier or what passed as one. Just as the starter was ready to let them go, Butterfly got cranky again and she parted company once more with the young fellow on her back. That was the last time. The rest of the horses were started and Butterfly led them all the way, unfortunately she did not have any rider.

Dora Fore was first, running a fine race. Echo was placed second and Radio third. No Chance was fourth. The time was 1:24. Charlie Archer owns both first and second horses, while Radio is owned by Pat St. Peter and No Chance is the property of Mr. McLuhan, Clover Bar. Also ran—Miss Ruby and Butterfly.

In the quarter-mile pony race, Belle Orr was the winner. Following close behind were Fleetwood and B[illegible] Sunday finishing second and third respectively. The time was 27 2-5. Also ran—Miss Bullet, Pet, Peanuts, Daisy Dean, Joey, Brick and Nellie.

Fine Race

The half-mile running race provided [illegible] interesting [illegible] Dora Fore after a poor start coming from behind in the last hundred yards to win by a hair or whatever you like. Radio was second and Echo third. The time was 55 seconds. Also ran—Butterfly, Echo, Miss Ruby, No Chance, and Lady Bar.

Just about this time Bill Matthews who was in charge of affairs as far as arranging and announcing the athletic events was concerned brought on the bicycle racers. In the [illegible] mile senior race [illegible] Keen finished well up to win the first prize. Alex Cour was second and Ronald Watkins third. The time was 6.24. Donald Dewar was fourth.

Keen Winners

In the other bicycle race, a mile dash for the juniors, James Keen was first, just by way of keeping up the family's good name. Izie Motkovick was second and Art Southworth third. The time was 3.45. Louis Haddow and Art Gilmour were also in the race.

The girls relay race was won by the team composed of Ethel Barnett, Miss Killine, Dot Hill, and Jane Crang. Miss Jaffe, Ruth Fry, J. Innis, and Marj. Hogan were on the losing team. The time was 57 seconds.

Hughie Miller w[illegible] the field in the junior [illegible] Following him closely were [illegible]eau and Alex Ainslee, second and third respectively. The time was 11 seconds. Leo Lawrence, Joe Brown, John Cunningham, William Heaton, Louis Haddow, William O'Brien, Campbell Scott, and Ivor Price pressed the leaders all the way.

CUBS DIVIDE DOUBLE HEADER WITH BRUINS

Amateur Baseball Teams Entertain Large Crowd At Boyle Street

The Cubs and Bulls divided a double bill in the Senior Amateur Baseball League yesterday afternoon, at Boyle street diamond, when the Bulls took the first game by a 7-5 score and the Cubs were on the long end of a 16-4 count in the second.

The first game was a nip and tuck affair all the way but the Bulls bunched hits off Allen Hall, the Cubs' twirler, in the fifth and sixth frames which netted them enough runs to win the game. "Chief" Gladu with the exception of the fifth frame, had the game in hand all the way.

Listless Affair

The second game was rather a listless affair with the Cubs ringing up an easy win. Patterson, on the hillock for the Cubs, turned back the Bulls with only five hits, pitching a nice game throughout. The stockyard crew started Gladu again but he was not equal to the "Iron Man" task [illegible]

Canadian Press

MONTREAL, July 2.—Willard F. Crocker and Jack Wright, both of Montreal, have been selected as two of the four players who will represent Canada in the Davis Cup matches this year, it was officially announced by G. H. Meldrum, president of the Canadian Lawn Tennis association Friday.

Jack Wright and E. H. Laframboise have been selected to represent Quebec in the Canadian championships at Vancouver.

Rain Storm Holds Up Cricket Schedule

Canadian Press Cable

LONDON, July 2.—A rain storm that extended over the entire country Friday made cricket impossible. The M. C. C.-Cambridge University game was drawn, the others do not count since there was less than six hours play in any game.

Connaught Cup Final At Renfrew Tonight

This evening at Renfrew Park, the Canadian Legion will lock horns with the Calgary Callies in a sudden death game in the provincial final in the Connaught cup series play commencing at 7 o'clock sharp.

Don Defieux, manager of the Canadian Legion, is confident of defeating the southerners but the locals are sure to have a large-sized job on their hands for the Callies are rated pretty high in the south.

[illegible] will referee.

Mickey Walker Wins

Here is the American who defeated Tommy Milligan in Thursday's championship bout at London. Walker won in the tenth by K.O.

CALGARY LACROSSE TEAM WILL PLAY HERE THIS AFTERNOON

All Star Aggregation From South Arrives For Big Match Which Will Be Played at Exhibition Gounds

This afternoon, at the Exhibition Grounds, the Calgary all-stars and the Native Sons will open the local [illegible] game with the Jubilee sports meet. Play will start at 4 o'clock sharp.

The visitors' lineup includes the pick of the southern city's lacrosse talent, chosen from the three teams that comprise their league. The Native Sons will use practically the same team that won the provincial honors last year and which has been improved this season by hard and constant practicing. Anee Young who has been a star in the national game for many years, and is now coach of the C. N. R. squad, will don a Native Sons' uniform for today's game.

The Lineups

Calgary, goal—Reid; point—Marshall; cover—Russell; 1st defence—McKinnon; 2nd defence—J. Kirkpatrick; [illegible] Tubman; 2nd home [illegible] 1st home—H. Tubman [illegible] Fuller; subs—McLeran, Knight, Murphy.

Canadian Press Cable

LONDON, July 2.—Betty Nuthall, 16-year-old tennis player, will remain an amateur, according to an announcement made by her mother Friday. Recently it was reported that Miss Nuthall was considering a contract involving a sum variously estimated from $20,000 to $60,000.

JOE WRIGHT IN ANOTHER GREAT WIN ON FRIDAY

Will Meet R. Lee in Finals Diamond Sculls Today

Canadian Press Cable

HENLEY ON THAMES, England, July 2.—Showing beautiful form and tremendous pace, Joe Wright, Jr., young representative of the Argonaut Rowing Club, Toronto, sculled his way to an easy victory over D. Guye, of London, in the semi-finals of the historic diamond sculls, emblematic of the world's amateur sculling championship, over the Henley course today.

R. Lee, of Worcester College, Oxford, having defeated Jack Beresford, Jr., winner for the past three years, in the other semi-final Friday, Wright will meet him in the final today.

Big Upset

Lee's defeat of the mighty Beresford, who had been given an edge over Wright as first choice for the title, was the greatest upset the championship has seen in years. The champion showed little of the form which has [illegible] in former years and was beaten by three lengths in the semi-final's slow time of [illegible] minutes and four seconds.

Wright's opponent, Guye, sculled hard and pluckily but was outclassed by the Argonaut man. The Canadian drew away from his rival at the start and towards the close Guye was left standing still. Wright won by nearly eight lengths. His time was eight minutes and 17 seconds.

Lou. Gehrig Leading Babe Ruth With 26

NEW YORK, July 2.—The Yankees rolled their latest winning streak to 6 Friday, triumphing over the Red Sox [illegible] Lou Gehrig featuring with his [illegible] homer in the first to put him one ahead of Babe Ruth.

At St. Louis the Browns ended their losing streak which reached five games, by winning a slugging match from the Chicago White Sox, 14 to 12. The Browns gathered 18 safeties including two home runs.

At the capital Hadley, a recruit held the Athletics to three hits and Washington won, 2 to 1. It was the Senators' eighth straight [illegible]

A wild third inning in which six runs went across gave the Tigers a 10 to 5 victory over the Indians at Cleveland. It was the tenth Detroit triumph in the last eleven games.

CANADIANS WIN

CHRIST CHURCH, N. Z., July 2.—In the second test match of their tour the Canadian all-stars defeated New Zealand representative soccer team here Friday afternoon by a score of 2 to 1.

Clifford Bricker Wins 15-Mile Marathon Race

Canadian Press

TORONTO, July 2—Travelling the course in record time, Clifford Bricker, of Galt, captured the 15-mile marathon race held in connection with Toronto's celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation here Friday. Bricker's time was 1 hour 19 minutes 11 seconds. Harvey F. Bricker, Millrose A. C., New York, was second, a half mile behind the winner, while Frank Titterton also of the Millrose club, was third.

LENHART WINS

BIG BILL AND PARTNER LOSE MIXED DOUBLES

Second Successive Defeat For Former Tennis King —Final Today

Canadian Press Cable

WIMBLEDON, July 2.—Wimbledon Friday witnessed Wm. T. Tilden's second successive downfall and on consecutive days. Following his defeat in the singles Thursday by Henri Cochet of France, "Big Bill" paired with Mrs. Molla Mallory, United States champion, was eliminated from the mixed doubles by Baron Von Kehrling of Hungary and Miss Eileen Bennett of England, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4. Miss Burnett's play was particularly brilliant.

The United States team made a strong start but Tilden's play weakened greatly in the second set. As in the match against Cochet, he seemed to tire and made many errors.

Reach Finals

Francis T. Hunter and Miss Elizabeth Ryan, the other United States team in the mixed doubles, reached the quarter finals by a relatively easy victory over A. Berger and Mrs. Lambert Chambers, 6-1, 8-6.

The French mixed doubles teams of Jean Borotra and Mme. Bordes was eliminated by H. W. Austin and Betty Nuthall of England, 6-4, 9-7.

Helen Wills gave a stellar performance in the women's doubles when she and Elizabeth Ryan eliminated Mrs. M. Watson and Miss E. A. Goldsack of England, 6-2, 6-2.

Misses Wills and Ryan now have reached the semi-finals of the women's doubles.

The finals in both singles will be played today.

CLOVER BAR IS WINNER BY 5-2

Bennett Shield Match Was Poorly Contested Affair

In the first round of the Bennett Shield (provincial football championship) Clover Bar had little difficulty defeating the Radial Rovers last night at Renfrew Park, the final score being 5-2.

The Rovers had a weak team on the field. There was only a few fans in attendance; although the football displayed was not the best by any means there was a few interesting features to the game.

Dixon opened the scoring for the Rovers in the first half but a few moments later H. Britt evened the count. Then Wallie Rammage scored and at the turn the tally was 2-1 in favor of the Bar.

Jimmy Moffatt got two, Haw[illegible] one and Dixon one in the last half which was featured by the sensational kicking of Jock McEwan who, while not having played very many games of late, nevertheless turned out last night and proved to be very good.

Pittsburgh Wins Over Cincinnati Reds, 5-1

Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 2.—The Pirates hit timely against Luque at Pittsburgh Friday to defeat Cincinnati, 5 to 1.

At Chicago Hal Carlson kept St. Louis' five hits well scattered and Chicago hammered Flint Rhem off the hill in the third inning to gain a six to two victory over the world's champions.

Boston divided another double-header with the Giants at Boston bursting through with a two run rally in the ninth to win the first game by 7 to 6 and coming out on the short end of a 4 to 1 score in the final.

The Phillies started a stirring ninth-inning rally at Philadelphia to score twice and defeat the Robins by 7 to 6, Jack Scott topping Dazzy Vance in a pitchers' battle.

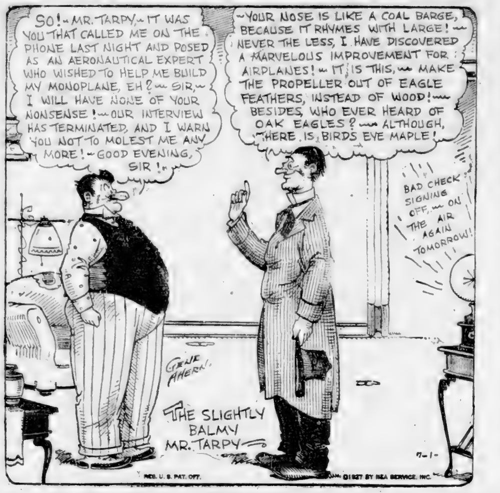
OUR BOARDING HOUSE - - By Ahern



SO! — MR. TARPY, — IT WAS YOU THAT CALLED ME ON THE PHONE LAST NIGHT AND POSED AS AN AERONAUTICAL EXPERT WHO WISHED TO HELP ME BUILD MY MONOPLANE, EH? — SIR, — I WILL HAVE NONE OF YOUR NONSENSE! — OUR INTERVIEW HAS TERMINATED, AND I WARN YOU NOT TO MOLEST ME ANY MORE! — GOOD EVENING, SIR!
— YOUR NOSE IS LIKE A COAL BARGE, BECAUSE IT RHYMES WITH LARGE! — NEVER THE LESS, I HAVE DISCOVERED A MARVELOUS IMPROVEMENT FOR AIRPLANES! — IT IS THIS, — MAKE THE PROPELLER OUT OF EAGLE FEATHERS, INSTEAD OF WOOD! — BESIDES, WHO EVER HEARD OF OAK EAGLES? — ALTHOUGH, THERE IS BIRDS EYE MAPLE!
BAD CHECK SIGNING OFF, — ON THE AIR AGAIN TOMORROW!

1. All used cars offered to the public shall be honestly represented.
2. All Studebaker automobiles which are sold as CERTIFIED CARS have been properly reconditioned, and carry a 30-day guarantee for replacement of defective parts and free service on adjustments.
3. Every used car is conspicuously marked with its price in plain figures, and that price, just as the price of our new cars, is rigidly maintained.
4. Every purchaser of a used car may drive it for five days, and then, if not satisfied for any reason, turn it back and apply the money paid as a credit on the purchase of any other car in stock—new or used.

Knights of Columbus Insurance Scheme Is Well Supported

During April and May of this year applications were received for Knights of Columbus insurance amounting to $7,770,000, according to information received from the supreme office by J. M. Gilmour, state deputy for Alberta.

The total number of applications for these two months was 6,769, a gain of 1,121 over the corresponding period of 1926. These figures indicate in no small measure the growing appreciation of the safe and economical protection afforded members of the order through the Knights of Columbus insurance plan.

Immigrants Plead Guilty of Thefts

Three thefts from farmers in surrounding districts have been brought home by the police against Paul Linke and Richard Netsche, immigrants from Germany, who arrived in Alberta last April, and before Judge Morrison of the District court they were remanded for sentence until July 6. They entered pleas of guilty at Fort Saskatchewan Tuesday.

The arrest of Linke and Netsche by provincial police officers has put an end to a series of burglaries and petty thieving among farmers of this region. Most of the loot, except the actual cash, was recovered.

R. VANDERBILT GAMBLED AWAY THIRTY MILLION

"Heaven Sent Sucker," Had Only $87,000 When His Estate Was Settled

NEW YORK, July 2.—It now appears that the former Miss Gloria Morgan, widow of the late Reginald Vanderbilt, will receive out of his sadly depleted and muddled estate the interest on $87,000 which was all the fortune he left when his debts were paid. There is, however, a trust fund of $5,000,000 left to him by his father, Cornelius, which his children will inherit.

Leaves Two Children

He left two, one by each of his wives. While he lived he was able to spend the interest on this sum, but his widow will not have the handling of any of it unless a court allows her to act as trustee for her child. Mr. Reginald Vanderbilt did not "cut up," as the English used to say, in such glorious portions as had been expected. The truth is that for twenty-five years before his death, that is to say from the time of his coming of age he spent an average income of perhaps three-quarters of a million dollars, and, in addition, another $14,000,000 of principle. It is one of the most extraordinary dissipations of a large fortune in gentlemanly vices and extravagances of modern times. Only now is it coming to light that the great bulk of his fortune was lost gambling.

There is a story told, in the American Weekly, that on the night of March 14, 1902, Reggie Vanderbilt, who had recently come into control of his money, and a small party of Yale classmates paid a visit to Canfield's notorious gambling resort at East Forty-fourth street, New York. They speedily lost the comparatively small amount of cash they had, and then Reggie said to Canfield, "Is my cheque good?" To which the not unnatural reply was, "Certainly, sir, for any amount."

Lost 10 Bets

So Reggie continued to play, betting at first $200 a turn at rouge et noir. He lost ten straight bets and we are not sure about the aptness of the adjective—and then began to get a thousand. By the time the sun rose he had lost $120,000.

"I will take $5,000 more and stop," he remarked. He played the red eight times at $1,000 a roll, winning twice and losing six times. He had a thousand left. "One thousand on the red," he said calmly. It came back.

He wrote out a cheque for all he had lost, yawned slightly, put on his hat and went home. The pawn is said to have been the most impressive ever witnessed in Canfield's.

Paid to Lure Him

The most extraordinary thing about his gambling losses is that he seems not to have been a slave to gambling. He showed none of the desperate keenness to win that is characteristic of the born gambler, whether he is a shoeshine lad or a millionaire. He was not greedy for more money, and he had enough interests in life to give him pleasure without the excitement of risking a fortune on the turn of a card. Moreover, his friends can never recall a time when he suggested that they should do some gambling. It was always somebody else who made the suggestion, and it was always accepted by Reggie.

The inference is that if nobody else had proposed gambling he might have been content to go through life without this recreation. There is also the more sinister implication that people were paid to make the suggestion. It is alleged on the [illegible] we have already quoted that the Deauville Casino, one of the most noted gambling resorts in Europe, paid $48,000 in commissions, salaries and expenses to lure within its walls Reggie Vanderbilt, who supposed that he was entering of his own accord. He lost $60,000 the first night.

He Hardly Ever Won

Another extraordinary thing is that he hardly ever won. It is incredible that if he was facing only the mathematical odds of any game of chance he would not have won more frequently, and the inescapable conclusion is that Reggie Vanderbilt was cheated out of some millions of dollars. He was one of the kind who valued more than any other reputation that of being a good loser. He did not have to be lured with occasional winnings to encourage him.

Nor was he plunging to retrieve his fortunes. He was just naturally the heaven-sent sucker for all the big gamblers in Europe and the United States who could get hold of him. He never once suspected that he was being swindled, and he was the soul of honor in paying debts. The notion of stopping a cheque after a night's losses never occurred to him. In effect, he was, as the saying is, "asking for it."

Perhaps the gamblers salved their consciences, if any, by the reflection that he had more money than they could rob him of, and it is true that he never experienced undue hunger or had to wear the same collar two days in succession. But the truth [illegible] clean before he died, and that if it had not been for the interest on the trust fund he would have died a bankrupt.

Gambled $30,000,000

He paid little attention to Wall street, though in 1909 he and a friend, Sidney C. Love, dropped nearly a couple of million dollars in a wheat deal. He did not maintain expensive ladies of the chorus, [illegible] was good for him, as his [illegible] erated stomach bore witness [illegible] for a week. He had a [illegible] accidents.

[illegible] he was a noted purchaser of show horses and fashionable dogs. He did not give expensive entertainments. He just foolishly gambled away something like $30,000,000 in interest and principle in twenty-five years. When he died he left some serious debts. He owed a newspaper $269.89, and there was a meat bill of more than $8,000 outstanding, as well as one for groceries of $3,334. An unpaid garage bill of $3,000; flowers, $1,343; ice, $227, and a bill from the Pinkertons for $500 were some of the claims made upon his shrivelled estate.

Whether he got value for what he spent must remain a mystery, and this [illegible] is the most important point of all.

Manuscript Score Confederation March Given Mrs. Jennings

Fitting ceremonies attended the presentation Wednesday evening to Mrs. M. R. Jennings, of the manuscript score of the "March Confederation," composed and arranged by Frank G. Aldridge, conductor of the Edmonton Newsboys band and dedicated to the late Milton Robbins Jennings, co-founder with John Michaels of the band. The presentation was made at the band's practice room, 102 street.

The 'script was suitably bound in morocco leather and bore the inscription, "'March Confederation,' respectfully dedicated to the late Milton Robbins Jennings."

The presentation was made by John Michaels, who spoke feelingly of the great assistance Mr. Jennings had been in founding and supporting the band. Mrs. Jennings expressed her appreciation and gratification at receiving the march.

Invited guests included Mr. and Mrs. George B. O'Connor, Mr. and Mrs. James Ramsey, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Imrie and Mrs. Sheldon.

MONDAY AT CAPITOL

Never a girl like this! You have never met a girl just like her, the gayest, pertest, steppingest, beauty who ever Charlestoned into your heart. What a film blend of rich humor, real romance, unforgettable thrills she'll lead you through. She had an Irish mother, a Jewish father, and then a son of Aaron and a son of Erin had claim to her heart. You will simply howl at the joyous comedy drama, "Frisco Sally Levy" which starts a three days' engagement at the Capitol theatre on Monday. The part of "Frisco Sally Levy" is enacted by the famous Sally O'Neill. Playing opposite her is Roy D'Arcy, assisted by Charles Delaney, Kate Price, Leon Holmes and many other successful screen favorites.

"Her Husky Hero" is the comedy attraction on the same program and the ever-popular Capitol News of the World.

Frankie and his Capitolians will appear nightly at [illegible], assisted by Syd Barnes, English character comedian, Pearl Hogg, famous 'cellist, and Blanche Boulange, Juvenile singing comedin.

MONDAY AT PRINCESS

Attention of the man who decared that no successful play could be constructed without a villain is respectfully called to "McFadden's Flats" showing at the Princess Theatre, Monday.

For the screen production of this feature comedy, like the stage play that endured for more than thirty years of successful and continuous runs, is practically without the suggestion of villany.

While more laughs, numerous, unusual and side-splitting situations have been added to the original stage play in order to fit it for the screen, it is as much without the usual "heavy" work of the ordinary play as when it first was produced.

HOME FOR INVALIDS

VANCOUVER, July 2.—Mrs. Mary Smith, M.L.A., announced Thursday that Frederick J. Buscombe, former mayor of Vancouver, has donated to the British Columbia government his large residence overlooking Burnaby Lake, eight miles east of here, as a home for incurable invalids.

MONDAY AT EMPRESS

Why is the villain [illegible] ally the best dre[illegible]

That is the [illegible] brought to light in the [illegible] "Lovers," starring Ramon Novarro with Alice Terry, a [illegible] Monday to the Empress theatre. In the new Metro-Goldwyn [illegible] mance of Spain, the best dressed man is John Miljan—who plays the nearest thing to a villain one [illegible] find in this villain-less play.

The new production [illegible] drama of modern Spain based on the poisonous effect of scandal in wrecking the souls of its victims. Ramon Novarro and Alice Terry play the hero and heroine of the strange social problem presented in the dramatic tale, with a notable cast that includes Edward Martindel, Edward Connelly, GeGeorge K. Arthur, John Miljan, Lillian Leighton, Otto Hoffman and others of note.

THURSDAY AT EMPRESS

The reason gun fighters of the turbulent West used to carry two guns has finally been explained by "Partner Jones," famous deadshot.

An expert on all matters pertaining to the gun, Jones points out that the two-gun man of old is an exaggeration as far as shooting equally well with both weapons simultaneously is concerned. He admits that occassionally a trick shooter could accomplish it but never in an actual battle. In a quick draw, most of the shells from one six-shooter were used in a flash. The second gun was carried in reserve in case needed.

Again, he maintains, most gun toters carried only five shots in their six shooters, so there would be no cartridge against the firing pin. The peace officers and bad men wore their belts tight and low on the hip to get a quicker and easier draw. The cowboys and fellows who didn't expect a shooting argument wore their six shooters more loosely, so they could swing a leg over the saddle with less difficulty.

Expert advice in line with Partner Jones' observations were followed in "Quicksands," starring Richard Dix, coming on Thursday to the Empress theatre. Dix himself carries his gun in the approved style, that is in a holster, belted tightly around the waist.

MONDAY AT MONARCH

A new screen star, destined it is confidently predicted for international popularity, will make his appearance in a local theatre Monday when his latest production, "A One Man Game," will be shown at the Monarch.

This picture, a novel western story of the popular Blue Streak Western brand, is one of the first of a new series in which Universal Pictures Corporation is introducing its stellar discovery to the theatre-going public.

Humes' rapid rise from obscurity to stardom at the head of his own company makes a novel story. Born in DuBoise, Pennsylvania, Humes graduated from high school there, then set out to see the part of the universe in which he happened to be residing.

MONDAY AT DREAMLAND

Victoria Gardens, the Thames Embankment, Cleopatra's Needle, the Houses of Parliament, Waterloo Station, Westminster Bridge and Westminster Abbey—these are only a few of the interesting sights of London which will be seen in "Every Mother's Son," the all English picture to be shown at the Dreamland theatre for a 3-day run, starting next Monday.

From the first flash to the last fade-out, the atmosphere in "Every fade-out, the atmosphere in "Every Mother's Son" is absolutely English the real thing, as every one familiar with London and the Old Land will realize at once. The production is a sincere effort on the part of the producers to tell a strong human story of English life and character covering a period of about thirty years, and it is characterized throughout by two distinctly British sentiments, love of home and fireside, coupled with intense and practical patriotism.

The life expectancy of the average American is 55.51 years.

The most famous queen bee of all time was valued at $1,000. Her daughter sold for $800.

The Philippine Islands include 7,083 islands, with a total area of 114,400 square miles.

MANY DROWNED THROUGH EAST

OTTAWA, July 2.—An unusually large number of drownings were reported in eastern Canada Wednesday. Summer-like weather was indirectly responsible in a number of cases.

Four-year-old Roland Dagenais was drowned when he fell into a well at the home of his parents near [illegible]. At Lindsay, Ont., James Arnold, aged 16, was drowned when he fell off a [illegible] [illegible] Robertson, aged 10, was drowned while bathing in the [illegible] London, Ontario.

Leo Ronney, [illegible] deck hand on the dredge Baxter Dick, was drowned when he fell overboard in the Welland Canal, near Welland, Ont. Frank Matthews, 60, is believed to have been drowned at Lockport, N.S. He started out yesterday on a sealing expedition. His half-filled boat was found today. [illegible] Que. Chesley Moncrieff, 23, despondent over ill health, jumped into the [illegible] drowned.

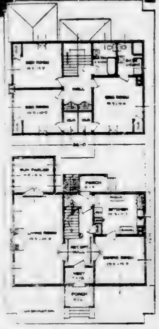
Home Builders and Home Owners

WHEN YOU WANT A HOME

THERE'S NOTHING LIKE COLONIAL



After all, there are few home architectural motifs like the Colonial and here, in "The Washington," it is most appealingly embodied. Visualize this pretty individual model standing on that site you always thought was "just the place for a home!" See that living room, [illegible] with its French doors adjoining [illegible] and large [illegible] fireplace. Observe the [illegible] of the dining room and the arrangement of the three [illegible] bedrooms. For [illegible] facilities too, there are not many as generously equipped as "The Washington." LOOK OUT!_HERE COMES THE SHERIFF AND HIS FAITHFUL BLOODHOUND ON THE TRACK OF HIGHWAY ROBBERS!
I NEVER TOLD YOU ABOUT ME BEING A REALLY SHERIFF FOR AWHILE IN MOSCO COUNTY.
"MOSCO COUNTY WAS THE COUNTY THAT GRIZZLY IKE LIVED IN AND ONE DAY WHILE I WAS VISITING HIM I RODE INTO WILD CAT GULCH FOR SOME PROVISIONS_WILD CAT GULCH WAS THE COUNTY SEAT OF MOSCO COUNTY...
"_AND JUST AS I WAS COMING INTO TOWN I SAW A COUPLE OF FELLOWS SHOOT EACH OTHER UP IN MAIN STREET AND EVERYBODY RUNNING FOR COVER_"
BAR
"_I WENT INTO A LUNCH ROOM TO GET A SANDWICH AND A CUP OF COFFEE BUT FOUND THE PLACE DESERTED_"
HAM AND 20¢
LUNCH
"_AFTER I HAD SEATED MYSELF FOR A FEW MINUTES THE PROPRIETOR CAME CRAWLING OUT FROM UNDER THE COUNTER_ONE OF THE BULLETS HAD GONE THROUGH HIS WINDOW AND MADE A HOLE IN THE COFFEE URN_
LUNCH
HAM AN 20
I ASKED HIM WHAT WAS THE MATTER WITH THEIR SHERIFF THAT HE ALLOWED SUCH UNLAWFUL ACTS IN THEIR PUBLIC HIGHWAYS
HAM AND 20¢
COFFEE & SINKERS A NICKEL
HE SAID SO MANY SHERIFFS HAD LOST THEIR LIVES NO ONE HAD NERVE TO TAKE THE JOB AND THEY HAD NO SHERIFF JUST THEN
I TOLD HIM GUN CARRIERS WERE PHYSICAL COWARDS_THAT I WOULDN'T BE AFRAID TO TAKE THE JOB_HE TOLD ME THE VIGILANCE COMMITTEE WAS NOW IN SESSION AND IF I WANTED THE JOB TO GO AND GET IT_
SINKERS A NICKEL
SO DETERMINED TO BLOT OUT SUCH LAWLESSNESS I STARTED FOR THE COURT HOUSE
I TOLD THIS COMMITTEE THAT I WAS DISGUSTED WITH THE LAWLESS CONDITION AND IF I WAS GIVEN THE POWER I WOULD TAME THE COUNTY SO THAT LAMB'S WOOL WOULD GROW ON WILD CATS
VIGILANTES MEETING
_THEY WERE GLAD TO GIVE ME THE JOB BUT I COULD SEE THEY DIDN'T HAVE MUCH CONFIDENCE IN ME_THEY ALL HAD A LOOK OF DOUBT AND SYMPATHY ON THEIR FACES_"
VIGILANTES MEETING
AND JUST AS I WAS SWORN IN AND WAS LIGHTING MY CIGAR A BULLET CAME THROUGH THE WINDOW AND KNOCKED MY MATCH OUT AS A WARNING TO ME'
VIGILANTES MEETING
BANG
OOH GEE, DADDY, DIDN'T THAT MAKE YOU GIVE UP THE JOB?
I SHOULD SAY NOT! THAT JUST MADE ME ALL THE MORE DETERMINED TO CLEAN UP THE TOWN BUT IT'S A LONG STORY_I'LL TELL YOU SOME OTHER TIME_THEY DIDN'T KILL ME I'LL TELL YOU THAT!

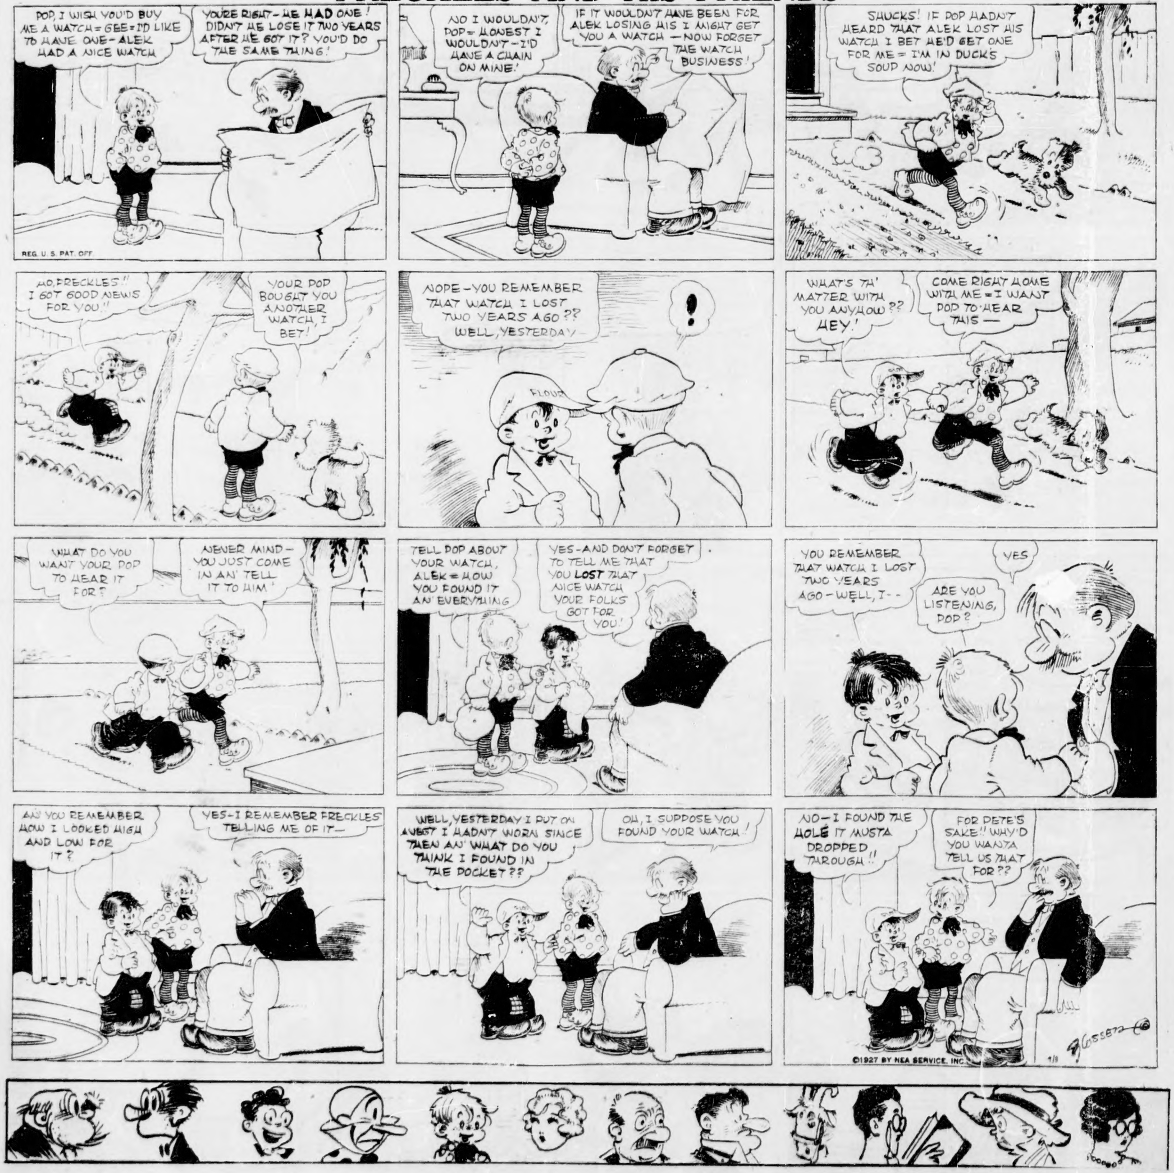
FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS



POP, I WISH YOU'D BUY ME A WATCH = GEE = I'D LIKE TO HAVE ONE - ALEK HAD A NICE WATCH
YOU'RE RIGHT - HE HAD ONE! DIDN'T HE LOSE IT TWO YEARS AFTER HE GOT IT? YOU'D DO THE SAME THING!
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
NO I WOULDN'T, POP = HONEST I WOULDN'T - I'D HAVE A CHAIN ON MINE!
IF IT WOULDN'T HAVE BEEN FOR ALEK LOSING HIS I MIGHT GET YOU A WATCH - NOW FORGET THE WATCH BUSINESS!
SHUCKS! IF POP HADN'T HEARD THAT ALEK LOST HIS WATCH I BET HE'D GET ONE FOR ME = I'M IN DUCK'S SOUP NOW!
HO, FRECKLES!! I GOT GOOD NEWS FOR YOU!!
YOUR POP BOUGHT YOU ANOTHER WATCH, I BET!
NOPE - YOU REMEMBER THAT WATCH I LOST TWO YEARS AGO?? WELL, YESTERDAY -
FLOUR
WHAT'S TH' MATTER WITH YOU ANYHOW?? HEY!
COME RIGHT HOME WITH ME = I WANT POP TO HEAR THIS - WHAT DO YOU WANT YOUR POP TO HEAR IT FOR?
NEVER MIND - YOU JUST COME IN AN' TELL IT TO HIM!
TELL POP ABOUT YOUR WATCH, ALEK = HOW YOU FOUND IT AN' EVERYTHING
YES - AND DON'T FORGET TO TELL ME THAT YOU LOST THAT NICE WATCH YOUR FOLKS GOT FOR YOU!
YOU REMEMBER THAT WATCH I LOST TWO YEARS AGO - WELL, I - -
YES
ARE YOU LISTENING, POP?
AN' YOU REMEMBER HOW I LOOKED HIGH AND LOW FOR IT?
YES - I REMEMBER FRECKLES TELLING ME OF IT -
WELL, YESTERDAY I PUT ON A VEST I HADN'T WORN SINCE THEN AN' WHAT DO YOU THINK I FOUND IN THE POCKET??
OH, I SUPPOSE YOU FOUND YOUR WATCH!
NO - I FOUND THE HOLE IT MUSTA DROPPED THROUGH!!
FOR PETE'S SAKE!! WHY'D YOU WANNA TELL US THAT FOR??

BOY! THE WIND IS JUST RIGHT - THE FISH OUGHT TO BITE TODAY LIKE HUNGRY MOSQUITOS - I PROMISED MIN TO BRING HOME A NICE MESS OF FISH - AND BELIEVE ME THIS IS ONE DAY I'LL KEEP MY PROMISES
THERE IT IS - DON'T RUSH - DON'T CROWD - WORMS ENOUGH FOR ALL - YOU'LL ALL BE WAITED ON FIRST COME FIRST SERVED.
WELL, IF YOU DON'T LIKE THAT WITH NIGHT CRAWLERS - WE'LL TRY SOMETHING ELSE - I THINK WHAT YOU'RE LAYING FOR IS A SOFT SHELLED CRAB -
WELL - THE CRAB LOOKS ALLRIGHT - BUT HE MUST NOT HAVE HAD THE PROPER REFERENCES - I SEE THE FISH DONT LIKE HIM
THEY'RE ALL SHOPPERS - BUT NOBODY IS BUYING TO DAY - I'VE TRIED EVERY KIND OF BAIT -
WHAT THEY WANT IS A BARGAIN I'LL GIVE THEM FOUR WORMS FOR THE PRICE OF ONE -
HAVE SOME OF MY LUNCH -
HERE'S THE BASKET - THE KNIVES AND FORKS - AND DISHES AND IF YOU JUST WAIT AWHILE I'LL GO HOME AND GET THE DINING ROOM TABLE -
LADIES AND GENTLE FISH - AS I STAND AND WATCH YOU ENJOYING YOUR BANQUET I AM REMINDED OF THE STORY OF THE SCOTCHMAN WHO WAS MARRIED IN THE BACK YARD SO HIS CHICKENS COULD EAT THE RICE - WORDS CANNOT EXPRESS HOW HAPPY I AM TO KNOW YOU ENJOYED YOUR MEAL - I WISH TO APOLOGIZE FOR OFFERING YOU UNCOOKED WORMS -
I WOULD NOT EAT SUCH FOOD MY SELF - AND I DON'T BLAME YOU FOR REFUSING IT - NOW, I KNOW WHAT YOU LIKE - I'LL BE HERE EVERY DAY AT THIS TIME TO SERVE YOU - WAIT TILL YOU TASTE SOME OF MY WIFE'S HOT BISCUITS WITH HOME MADE JELLY -
YOU MAY HAVE THOUGHT THE CHICKEN SANDWICHES YOU ATE WERE DELICIOUS - BUT WAIT TILL I BRING YOU A ROASTED VIRGINIA HAM WITH RAISIN SAUCE AND BAKED SWEET POTATOES THAT WILL MAKE YOUR MOUTH WATER TO LOOK AT - REMEMBER YOU ARE INVITED EVERY DAY FOR DINNER - TELL THE CHILDREN ICE CREAM AND CAKE WILL BE SERVED - DON'T FORGET THE TIME AND PLACE - IN CONCLUSION I THANK YOU ONE AND ALL FOR YOUR PRESENCE HERE THIS AFTERNOON -

I WAS WAITIN' FOR YOU TO GET UP, UNCLE AMOS, SO YOU COULD HEAR THIS CANNON CRACKER GO OFF!
EGAD, ALVIN M'LAD — THAT IS VERY CONSIDERATE OF YOU!
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
I'LL BETCHA PEOPLE WILL THINK IT'S ANOTHER WAR STARTIN' UP WHEN THEY HEAR THIS!
HM-M YES!
NOW, ALVIN, M'LAD — LET ME IGNITE THAT CANNON CRACKER! — I HAVE HAD MUCH EXPERIENCE IN HANDLING HIGH EXPLOSIVES!
AW-W GEE
IT IS ONLY FOR YOUR OWN SAFETY THAT I WANT TO DO IT! — REMEMBER, I HAVE SET OFF TONS AND TONS OF DYNAMITE, AND T.N.T.!
HECK, — I WANNA DO IT!
BUT M'LAD, — I KNOW HOW TO MAKE IT EXPLODE AND PRODUCE A NOISE TEN TIMES LOUDER THAN ORDINARILY!
GEE, — HERE, — HOW?
HAW, — BY TOSSING IT IN YON BARREL, — THE ACOUSTICS OF WHICH WILL GREATLY MAGNIFY THE CANNON CRACKER'S DETONATION!
OH YEH!
HM-M — WAIT TILL YOU HEAR IT! — HAW — CAREFUL NOW, — STAND BACK!
THERE! — RUN, ALVIN — RUN!
KA-PLOSH
OH PSHAW, — DRAT IT, — THE BARREL IS HALF FULL OF WATER!
WHA ?
WHAT'S TH' HOWL ALL ABOUT?
BU — WAW, — I HAD A CANNON CRACKER, — AN' UNCLE AMOS LIT IT, — AN' THREW IT IN THIS BARREL, — AN' IT'S HALF FULL OF WATER — WELL, HERE'S A HALF DOLLAR, ALVIN, — GO BUY Y'SELF SOME MORE FIRE CRACKERS, — AN' GET YOUR UNCLE A LOLLYPOP!
HMF — BAH!
GOSH — THANKS!
